microbial communities and the ways in which these microbial communities relate to human health and well being are extraordinarily complex and can be explored only as a dynamic interconnected ecosystem by engaging the fields of microbial biology and ecology chemistry building science and human physiology This report reviews what is known about the intersection of these disciplines and how new tools may facilitate advances in understanding the ecosystem of built environments indoor microbiomes and effects on human health and well being It offers a research agenda to generate the information needed so that stakeholders with an interest in understanding the impacts of built environments will be able to make more informed decisions
