With Power Comes Responsibility Maeve McKeown, 2024-02-08 What is structural injustice and who ultimately bears responsibility for it In answering these questions Maeve McKeown goes beyond the widely accepted narrative of unintended consequences and blameless participation to explain how power and responsibility truly function in today s world Drawing on case studies from sweatshops to climate change McKeown identifies three types of structural injustice the pure and unintended accumulation of disparate activities the avoidable injustice that could be ameliorated by the powerful but nevertheless continues the deliberate perpetuation of structural processes that benefit powerful political and economic agents In each of these the role of power is different which changes the allocation of responsibility From this understanding we can shape a deeper more sophisticated idea of how structural injustice operates and what we as individuals can do about it What is the political responsibility of ordinary individuals How can ordinary individuals with very little power pressure morally responsible powerful agents to address structural injustice Do we have the same responsibility for historical injustice as we do for that which we see in today s world This is fundamental reassessment of the relationship between power ordinary people and responsibility for structural injustice

Sales Promotion Decision Making Steve Ogden-Barnes, Stella Minahan, 2015-01-12 Sales promotions are a fact of life for the majority of retailers suppliers and FMGC stakeholders commanding up to 75 percent of total marketing budgets From straightforward discounts on products to more complex omni channel consumer competitions and contests sales promotions play a vital role as both strategic and tactical marketing tools Those responsible for sales promotions must deliver real results in cut throat competitive trading environments However with limited understanding of the options principles and practices that underpin effective sales promotion planning managers often rely on past experience or preferences to guide their decision making Not surprisingly many sales promotions fail to achieve their potential Sales Promotion Decision Making serves as a vital resource for practitioners Distilled from over 700 articles and cases it presents the findings of comprehensive global research which explores the DNA of sales promotions including their role nature and function the critical decision making processes and campaign evaluation This is supported with case studies of sales promotion planning in practice based on research conducted in FMCG and retail organizations The book offers the reader a deeper more comprehensive and critical expert appreciation of the core concepts that define sales promotions This will empower decision makers consultants and stakeholders to make more confident informed and effective campaign decisions
