Algeria In Others Languages:

Algeria in Others' Languages Anne-Emmanuelle Berger, 2002 For decades the superimposition of languages in Algeria has had growing cultural and political consequences The relations between identity and language already complicated before independence became all the more entangled after 1962 when the new state imposed standard Arabic as the sole national language The vernacular brand of Arabic spoken by the majority of the population as well as Berber spoken by an important minority were denied legitimacy Moreover French the colonial language continued to be important all the while that its position changed The violence that ensued in the late 1980s cannot be fully understood without considering the politics of language This timely book is devoted to Algeria's linguistic predicament and the underlying disagreements over notions of identity power and belonging What problems arise when a new national language is adopted by a postcolonial state How does the status of the former colonial language change What becomes of the original mother tongue's of the populace The authors of Algeria in Others Languages address these questions as they explore the historical cultural and philosophical significance of language in Algeria and its relation to issues of politics and gender Their topics range from analyses of political violence to the status of the principal of evidence in the legal system to the place of Francophonie in the 1990s The authors represent the fields of literature history sociology sociolinguistics and postcolonial and gender studies some are also historical players in Algeria's linguistic debates

Algerian Languages in Education Salim Bouherar, Abderrezzaq Ghafsi, 2022-01-03 This book examines the role of foreign languages and cultures in the Algerian educational system highlighting how cultural imperialism and supremacy persist through damaging language ideologies and the privileging of colonial languages such as French and English. The authors challenge the claim that the Algerian educational system can be considered neutral, arguing instead that it was and still is the outcome of a conflict between Arabised and Francophone elites serving strategic and ideological objectives rather than cultural or pedagogical goals. This book will be relevant to students and scholars of language education, language policy and planning, and the history and politics of the Arab and Muslim world, especially those interested in the influence of Western languages and cultures and the democratisation of educational systems.

Language Planning and Policy in Africa Richard B. Baldauf, Robert B. Kaplan, 2007-01-01. A longer range purpose is to collect comparable information on as many polities as possible in order to facilitate the development of a richer theory to guide language policy and planning in other polities that undertake the development of a national policy on languages. This volume is part of an areal series which is committed to providing descriptions of language planning and policy in countries around the world. BOOK JACKET Autobiography and Independence Debra Kelly, 2005-01-01. In Autobiography and Independence Debra Kelly examines four accomplished Francophone North African writers: Moulan Feroan, Assia Djebar, Albert Memmi, and Abdelkeacut bir Khatibi, to illuminate the complex relationship of a writer's work to cultural and national histories. The legacies of colonialism and the difficulties of nationalism run throughout all four writers' works; yet in their striking individuality the four demonstrate the ways in which such heritages are refracted through a writer's personal history. This book will be of interest to students of Francophone literature, colonialism, and African history and culture.

Naming Race, Naming Racisms Jonathan Judaken, 2013-09-13. Eschewing social scientific approaches which tend to examine race and racism in terms of quasi-static ideal types, this book surveys differing historical contexts from the era of scientific racism in the nineteenth century to the post-racial racism of the post-9/11 period and from Europe to the United States in order to understand how racism has been articulated in differing situations. It is distinguished by the attention it pays to the on-going power of racial discourse in the contemporary period as a legitimating factor in oppression. It exemplifies methodological openness, combining the work of historians, philosophers, religious scholars, and literary critics, and includes differing theoretical models in pursuing a critical approach to race, cultural studies, trauma theory, and psychoanalysis. It includes critical theory and consideration of the new racism and postcolonialism and the literature on globalization. It brings together the work of leading academics with younger practitioners and is capped off by an interview with world-renowned intellectual Cornel West on black intellectuals in America. This book was previously published as a special issue of Patterns of Prejudice.

Autofiction Antonia Wimbush, 2021-08-01. Autofiction: A Female Francophone Aesthetic of Exile explores the multiple aspects of exile, displacement, mobility, and identity as expressed in contemporary autofictional work written in French by women writers from across the francophone world. Drawing on postcolonial theory, gender theory, and autobiographical theory, the book analyses narratives of exile by six authors who are shaped by their multiple locales of attachment: Kim Lefvre (Vietnam/France), Gis le

Pineau Guadeloupe mainland France Nina Bouraoui Algeria France Mich le Rakotoson Madagascar France V ronique Tadj C te d Ivoire France and Abba Farhoud Lebanon Quebec In this way the book argues that the French colonial past continues to mould female articulations of mobility and identity in the postcolonial present Responding to gaps in the critical discourse of exile namely gender this book brings genre in both its forms gender and literary genre to bear on narratives of exile arguing that the reconceptualization of categories of mobility occurs specifically in women s autofictional writing The six authors complicate discussions of exile as they are highly mobile hybrid subjects This rootless existence however often renders them alienated and out of place While ensuring not to trivialize the very real difficulties faced by those whose exile is not a matter of choice the book argues that the six authors experience their hybridity as both a literal and a metaphorical exile a source of both creativity and trauma

African Culture and Global Politics Toyin Falola, Danielle Sanchez, 2014-01-10 This volume attempts to insert itself within the larger discussion of Africa in the twenty first century especially within the realm of world politics Despite the underwhelming amount of attention given to Africa s role in international politics in popular news sources it is evident that Africa has a consistent record of participating in world politics one that pre dates colonization and continues today In continuance of this legacy of active participation in global political exchanges Africans today can be heard in dialogues that span the world and their roles are impossible to replace by other entities It is evident that a vastly different Africa exists than ones that bolster images of starvation corruption and compliance The essays in this volume center on Africa and Africans participating in international political discourses but with an emphasis on various forms of expression and philosophies as these factors heavily influence Africa s role as a participant in global politics The reader will find a variety of essays that permeate surface discussions of politics and political activism by inserting African culture rhetoric philosophies into the larger discussion of international politics and Africa s role in worldwide political social and economic debates

The Berber Identity Movement and the Challenge to North African States Bruce Maddy-Weitzman, 2011-05-01 Like many indigenous groups that have endured centuries of subordination the Berber Amazigh peoples of North Africa are demanding linguistic and cultural recognition and the redressing of injustices Indeed the movement seeks nothing less than a refashioning of the identity of North African states a rewriting of their history and a fundamental change in the basis of collective life In so doing it poses a challenge to the existing political and sociocultural orders in Morocco and Algeria while serving as an important counterpoint to the oppositionist Islamist current This is the first book length study to analyze the rise of the modern ethnocultural Berber Amazigh movement in North Africa and the Berber diaspora Bruce Maddy Weitzman begins by tracing North African history from the perspective of its indigenous Berber inhabitants and their interactions with more powerful societies from Hellenic and Roman times through a millennium of Islam to the era of Western colonialism He then concentrates on the marginalization and eventual reemergence of the Berber question in independent Algeria and Morocco against a background of the growing crisis of regime legitimacy in each country His investigation illuminates many issues including the fashioning of official national narratives and policies aimed at subordinating Berbers in an Arab nationalist and Islamic centered universe the emergence of a counter movement promoting an expansive Berber imagining that emphasizes the rights of minority groups and indigenous peoples and the international aspects of modern Berberism
