

Class conflict and agrarian regimes in Chotanagpur, 1860–1950

P.P. Mohapatra

The relationship between agrarian production (investment, productivity and growth) and the social context in which it takes place (state policy, agrarian power and class structure) has been of abiding interest for historians of colonial agriculture. There has been a noticeable shift in recent historiography from an exclusive emphasis on colonial policy, especially revenue policy, to a greater sensitivity to regional variations and the specific context of agrarian class and power structure and its impact on productivity and growth.¹ But there are problems in the definition and elaboration of the concept of power. Does power always prohibit growth? Or does it also stimulate growth in certain situations? How is power to be defined, quantified and measured?

Meghnad Desai has, in a recent paper, proposed an elegant method for quantifying agrarian class power, primarily by measuring it in terms of the proportion of the surplus above subsistence extracted by the dominant class from subordinate ones, i.e., landlords from tenants and agricultural labourers.² This proportion enables us to compare landlord power across space and time. But we also need to explain the variations in landlord power. Quite clearly, if power is measured by the surplus extracted we cannot explain the level of extraction in terms of power itself. Or else we end up with a tautology such as: 'Landlords are more powerful because they extract more surplus; they extract more surplus because they are more powerful'. One way of circumventing this circularity is to determine the surplus extractable under competitive conditions and then examine deviations above and below this level in terms of relative power and class conflict. The

Agrarian Class Conflict

Ellen Meiksins Wood

Agrarian Class Conflict:

Class Conflict and the Crisis of Feudalism Rodney Hilton, 1985-07-01 The conflict between landlords and peasants over the appropriation of the surplus product of the peasant holding was a prime mover in the evolution of medieval society In this collection of essays Rodney Hilton looks at the economic context within which these conflicts took place He seeks to explain the considerable variations in the size composition and management of landed estates and investigates the nature of medieval urbanisation a consequence of the development of both local commodity production and long distance trade in luxury goods By setting the broader economic context the nature of the peasant and landlord economies and the commercialisation of peasant production Hilton s essays enable a thorough understanding of the relationship between landlords and peasants in medieval society

Agrarian Class Conflict Joseph Tharamangalam, 2011-11-01 How does rural class structure influence the political mobilization of farm labourers This case study documents the process in Kuttanad a rice producing region of India noted for its history of rural conflict Tharamangalam deals fully with the historical and present background of agrarian relations in India the character and conditions of the labour force the rise of the Communist labour unions and the reasons for their current dilemmas He offers valuable insights into the methods used by trade unions and the Communist Party to organize at the grass roots level The book is enriched by the author s familiarity with the region and the language his own extensive fieldwork and his use of important primary sources It will provide political scientists economists anthropologists and sociologists with valuable hitherto unpublished material

The Politics of Social Conflict Andy Wood, 1999-09-16 This book provides an alternative approach to the history of social conflict popular politics and plebeian culture in the early modern period Based on a close study of the Peak Country of Derbyshire c 1520 1770 it has implications for understandings of class identity popular culture riot custom and social relations A detailed reconstruction of economic and social change within the region is followed by an in depth examination of the changing cultural meanings of custom gender locality skill literacy orality and magic The local history of social conflict sheds light upon the nature of political engagement and the origins of early capitalism Important insights are offered into early modern social and gender identities civil war allegiances the appeal of radical ideas and the making of the English working class Above all the book challenges the claim that early modern England was a hierarchical pre class society

Authoritarian Populism and the Rural World Ian Scoones, Marc Edelman, Saturnino M. Borras Jr., Lyda Fernanda Forero, Ruth Hall, Wendy Wolford, Ben White, 2021-06-29 The rise of authoritarian nationalist forms of populism and the implications for rural actors and settings is one of the most crucial foci for critical agrarian studies today with many consequences for political action Authoritarian Populism and the Rural World reflects on the rural origins and consequences of the emergence of authoritarian and populist leaders across the world as well as on the rise of multi class mobilisation and resistance alongside wider counter movements and alternative practices which together confront authoritarianism and nationalist populism The book includes 20 chapters written by contributors to the Emancipatory Rural Politics Initiative ERPI a global network of academics and activists committed to both reflective analysis and political engagement Debates about populism nationalism authoritarianism and more have exploded recently but relatively little of this has focused on the rural dimensions Yet wherever one looks the rural aspects are key not just in electoral calculus but in understanding underlying drivers of authoritarianism and populism and potential counter movements to these Whether because of land grabs voracious extractivism infrastructural neglect or lack of services rural peoples disillusionment with the status quo has had deeply troubling consequences and occasionally hopeful ones as the chapters in this book show The chapters in this book were originally published in The Journal of Peasant Studies

Marxism and History S. H. Rigby, 1998 This critically acclaimed book now in its second edition is firmly established as an essential guide to this recent historiographical debate Adopted as a set book by the Open University An indispensable guide to Marxist historiography for undergraduates

Power and Protest in the Countryside Robert Paul Weller, Scott Evan Guggenheim, 1982 Constitutes an important and timely addition to the literature on peasant rebellion wisely the editors have been eclectic in drawing from some of the leading historians anthropologists political scientists and sociologists active in the field an analysis of the forms that rural violence has taken through the past three centuries Pacific Affairs

Social Protest, Violence & Terror in Nineteenth- & Twentieth-Century Europe Gerhard Hirschfeld, Wolfgang J. Mommsen, 1982-11-25

Transformations in Twentieth Century Korea Yun-shik Chang, Steven Hugh Lee, 2006-08-21 This edited collection traces the social economic political and cultural dimensions of Korea's dramatic transformation since the late nineteenth century Taking an interdisciplinary approach the chapters examine the internal and external forces which facilitated the transition towards industrial capitalism in Korea the consequences and impact of social change and the ways in which Korean tradition continues to inform and influence contemporary South Korean society Transformations in Twentieth Century Korea employs a thematic structure to discuss the interrelated elements of Korea's modernization within agriculture business and the economy the state ideology and culture and gender and the family The essays in this volume encompass the Choson dynasty the colonial period and postcolonial Korea Collectively they provide us with an original and innovative approach to the study of modern Korea and show how knowledge of the country's past is critical to understanding contemporary Korean society With contributions from a number of prominent international scholars within sociology economics history and political science Transformations in Twentieth Century Korea incorporates a global framework of historical narrative ideology and culture and statistical and economic analysis to further our understanding of Korea's evolution towards modernity

Democracy Against Capitalism Ellen Meiksins Wood, 2016-02-02 Historian and political thinker Ellen Meiksins Wood argues that theories of postmodern fragmentation difference and contingency can barely accommodate the idea of capitalism let alone subject it to critique In this book she sets out to renew the critical program of historical materialism by redefining its basic concepts and its theory of history in original and imaginative ways using them to identify the specificity of capitalism as a system of social relations and political power She goes on to explore the concept of democracy in both the ancient and modern world examining its relation to capitalism and raising questions about how democracy might go beyond the limits imposed on it

Crisis and Conflict in Agriculture Rami Zurayk, Eckart Woertz, Rachel Bahn, 2018-09-18 This volume sets out to explore the dialectic relating agriculture crisis and conflict and attempts to expand the knowledge on these interactions Part 1 of the volume chapters 1 6 discusses thematic issues and methodological approaches to understanding the intersection of agriculture crisis and conflict Part 2 chapters 7 20 provides case studies that take a detailed approach to understanding agricultural contexts facing crisis and conflict or the role played by agriculture within crisis and conflict Studies are selected from areas that might be expected to feature in such a volume the Middle East and North Africa sub Saharan Africa South and Southeast Asia and Latin America as well as less obvious regions where conflict within agriculture refers not to widespread violence or wars but rather latent or simmering crisis Central Asia and Europe Crises stemming from politically driven violence natural disasters and climate change are covered as well as competition over resources
