Introduction

Agricultural Involution: The Processes of Ecological Change in Indonesia is considered a brilliant application of the principles of cultural ecology placed within the context of Indonesia from the onset of Dutch colonialism in 1619 to after its independence in 1945. Geertz was one of the most accomplished and respected symbolic anthropologists of the twentieth century, however, above and beyond that discipline, Geertz also utilized ecology, geography, economics, sociology and history to further his thesis concerning the phenomena of agricultural involution. Geertz's main goal was to compose a detailed account of the processes responsible for the phenomenon. As Paul Robbins might put it in political ecology terms, "... an intellectual investigation of the human-environment interaction... a political exercise for greater social and ecological justice" (Robbins, 2005, p. xix). This phenomena, as it relates to Indonesia (and particularly Java) was the result of colonialism, rapid population growth and cultural lag produced by social instability and ineffectual public institutions. These factors created an increase in agricultural productivity per hectare, though without the accompanying economic increase per capita, which generated a desperate cycle of poverty and static opportunity, i.e. involution.

Agricultural Involution The Processes Of Ecological Change In Indonesia:

Agricultural Involution Clifford Geertz, 1963 A remarkably interesting account of Indonesian agricultural history primarily covering the period of Dutch control from 1619 to 1942 Drawing on ecology sociology and economics Geertz provides an insightful and persuasive analysis The Annals If colonial geography ever succeeds in establishing itself as a discrete and integral focus of inquiry it may well date its majority to the publication of Agricultural Involution Geographical Record A brilliant and superbly written study an incisive even frightening description of the most crucial dilemma in contemporary Indonesia Agricultural History A valuable and important study in which source materials from history economics soil science geography and other fields are brilliantly marshalled and interrelated But besides being an exemplary study in the interaction of history physical environment and agricultural technology this book represents a watershed between narrowly conceived ethnographies and the flood of verbose and ill digested post war technology and social change monographs that are wont to aim high and hit wide A model of comparative analytical writing Man Agricultural Involution. The Process of Ecological Change in Indonesia.... Clifford Geertz, 1966 The Agricultural Involution Clifford Geertz, 1966 Essays in Trespassing Albert O. Hirschman, 1981-08-31 This book brings together fourteen articles and papers written by Albert O Hirschman About half deal with the interaction of economic development with politics and ideology the area in which Hirschman perhaps has made most noted contributions Among these papers are The Rise and Declines of Development Economics a magisterial and yet pointed essay in intellectual history and his famous article The Changing Tolerance for Income Inequality in the Course of Economic Development Hirschman s ability to trespass or rather his inability not to trespass from one social science to another and beyond is the unifying characteristic of the volume Authoritative searching surveys alternate here with essays presenting some of Hirschman s characteristic inventions for instance the tunnel effect and obituary improving activities Three of the papers have not been published previously and a number of introductory notes have been especially drafted for the present volume to evoke the intellectual political climate in which certain groups of essays were written The Agricultural Involution Clifford Geertz, 1966 The Java that Never was Hans Antlöv, Jörgen Hellman, 2005 This book is about how cultures and societies on Java over the past century have been perceived and socially constructed by scholars inside and outside of Indonesia It is a reflective book how on the one hand academic theories have shaped our view of Java and on the other hand how the study of Java has influenced theoretical developments within a number of disciplines including anthropology development studies religious studies political science gender studies and the arts BOOK JACKET Case Studies in Biocultural Diversity from Southeast Asia F. Merlin Franco, Magne Knudsen, Noor Hasharina Hassan, 2022-07-27 This open access book demonstrates the linkages between local languages traditional knowledge and biodiversity at the landscape level in Asia providing a fresh approach to discussions on Asia s biocultural diversity The book carries forward earlier analyses but importantly focuses on traditional ecological calendars folk medicine and folk names in the context of the vital importance of maintaining biological cultural and linguistic diversity It does this by addressing a range of cases and issues in relation to Southeast Asia Brunei Darussalam Indonesia Malaysia the Philippines and North East India The several chapters demonstrate the ways in which the various forms of knowledge of the environment and its categorizations are important in areas such as landscape and resource management and conservation They also demonstrate that environmental knowledge and the practical skills which accompany it are not necessarily widely shared This book sends important messages to those who care about the sustainability of our environment the maintenance of its biocultural diversity or at least the maintenance of what remains of it because much has changed This interdisciplinary collection draws from a wide range of disciplines and is of appeal to students and scholars in anthropology environmental studies geography biodiversity and linguistics Exploring

Agrodiversity Harold Brookfield, 2001-05-07 Small farmers are often viewed as engaging in wasteful practices that wreak ecological havoc Exploring Agrodiversity sets the record straight Small farmers are in fact ingenious and inventive and engage in a diverse range of land management strategies many of them resourcefully geared toward conserving resources especially soil They have shown considerable resilience in the face of major onslaughts against their way of life by outsiders and government Using case studies from Africa Asia Latin America and the Pacific this book provides in depth analysis of agricultural diversity and explores its history The book also considers the effect of the gene revolution on small farmers and reviews the effects of the green revolution in Asian countries In conclusion it questions whether the diverse agricultural practices employed by small farmers can survive modern pressures and the global ambitions of the biotechnology industry

International Handbook of Population and Environment Lori M. Hunter, Clark Gray, Jacques Véron, 2022-02-07 This handbook presents a timely and comprehensive overview of theory data methods and research findings that connect human population dynamics and environmental context It presents regional summaries of empirical findings on migration and environmental connections and summarizes environmental impacts of migration such as urbanization and deforestation It also offers background on the health implications of environmental conditions such as climate change natural disasters scarcity of natural resources as well as on resource scarcity and fertility gender considerations in population and environment and the connections between population size growth composition and carbon emissions This handbook helps readers to better understand the complexities within population environment connections in addition to some of the opportunities and challenges within environmental demography As such this collection is an invaluable resource for students researchers and policy analysts in the areas of demography migration fertility health and mortality as well as environmental global and development studies Agroecological Innovations Norman Uphoff, 2013-06-17 The world's food supply needs to rise significantly yet both arable and water supplies per capita are decreasing Not only are modern agricultural methods beyond the reach of those suffering the greatest food insecurity but they are also ecologically damaging relying upon fossil energy and chemical inputs This volume offers a collection of innovative and diverse approaches to agricultural development Documented in 12 case studies these approaches are reliant upon greater knowledge skill and labour input rather than larger capital expenditure They are shown to increase yield substantially sometimes doubling or tripling output This volume presents the concepts and operational means for reorienting agricultural efforts towards these more environmentally friendly and socially desirable approaches in the developed as well as developing world
