Air Monitoring Survey Design:

Design and Protocol for Monitoring Indoor Air Quality Niren Laxmichand Nagda, Jerome P. Harper, 1989 The book is derived from a symposium prompted by the growing concern for air quality in homes offices and schools and the need for better design of investigations about indoor air quality problems and solutions Numerous chemical and physical factors influence the indoor concentrations of contaminants The multiplicity of these factors makes the investigation design process complex So well conceived designs and protocols form a crucial starting point for successful measurement programs Design of a study relates to developing a general strategy or approach protocols refers to specific procedures to be followed in conducting a study This document aims to provide information on designs and protocols used in different types of indoor air quality monitoring studies and to supply learning opportunities through shared experience Air Monitoring Survey Design
