Body In Swift And Defoe:

The Body in Swift and Defoe Carol Houlihan Flynn, 1990 This extended study of the treatment of the physical material nature of the human body in the works of Jonathan Swift and Daniel Defoe examines the role that literary invention with its rhetorical and linguistic strategies plays in expressing and exploring the problems of physicality The book takes up a wide range of issues relating to the body such as sexuality cannibalism scatology and the fear of contagion In an eclectic synthesis of recent critical approaches Professor Flynn draws insight from biographical and psychoanalytic criticism as well as social history Application of feminist theory offers an original and challenging discussion of renditions of female sexuality in both Defoe and Swift Publisher description Reproduction and the Maternal Body in Literature and Culture Jennifer S. Henke, 2025-05-13 This book examines a selection of texts to discuss how midwifery obstetrics and women's bodies were constructed during the long eighteenth century and how these material discursive entanglements between science medicine literature and culture have shaped society's views of pregnancy childbirth and reproduction Drawing on theories from disciplines such as feminist new materialism this book traces the history of both the reproductive body and the pluralistic medical knowledges that attended to pregnancy and childbirth during the Enlightenment and early Romanticism in Britain It identifies the significance of literary and cultural artefacts in this knowledge formation including the materiality of the female reproductive body itself and raises awareness of myths about pregnancy and childbirth that persist today This book features chapters exploring Jonathan Swift's Gulliver's Travels John Cleland's Fanny Hill Laurence Sterne's Tristram Shandy Eliza Fenwick's Secresy Or The Ruin on the Rock Mary Wollstonecraft's Maria Or The Wrongs of Woman and Mary Shelley's Frankenstein Reproduction and the Maternal Body in Literature and Culture is an innovative and interdisciplinary contribution to the medical humanities and feminist philosophy of science and will interest scholars from a range of backgrounds including literature and cultural studies midwifery medicine and history Swift's Politics Ian Higgins, 1994-05-05 A contextual reassessment of Swift's political writing concentrating on A Tale of a Tub and Gulliver's Travels Castaway Bodies in the Eighteenth-Century English Robinsonade Jakub Lipski, 2024-02-12 Exploring the metamorphoses of the body in the eighteenth century Robinsonade as a crucial aspect of the genre's ideologies Castaway Bodies offers focused readings of intriguing yet often forgotten novels Peter Longueville's The English Hermit 1727 Robert Paltock's Peter Wilkins 1751 and The Female American 1767 by an anonymous author The book shows that by rewriting the myths of the New Adam the Androgyne and the Amazon respectively these novels went beyond though not completely counter to the politics of conquest and mastery that are typically associated with the Robinsonade It argues that even if these narratives could still be read as colonial fantasies they opened a space for more consistent rejections of the imperial agenda in contemporary castaway fiction Letters and the Body, 1700-1830 Sarah Goldsmith, Sheryllyne Haggerty, Karen Harvey, 2023-07-04 This collection explores the multifaceted relationship between letters and bodies in the long eighteenth century featuring a broad selection of women's and men's letters written from and to Britain North America Europe India and the Caribbean from the labouring poor to the landed elite In eleven chapters scholars from various disciplines draw on different methodological approaches that include close readings of single letters social historical analyses of large corpora and a material culture approach to the object of the letter This research includes personal letters exchanged among family and friends formal correspondence and letters that were incorporated into published forewords and appendices journals and memoirs Part I explores the letter as a substitute for the absent body the imagined physical encounters and performances envisaged by letter writers and the means through which these imagined sensations were conveyed Part II examines the letter as a material object that served as a conduit for descriptions of the material body and as an instrument for embodied encounters Part III focuses on how correspondents purposefully used their bodies in letters as a means to create intimacy to generate social networks and build a body politic This interdisciplinary volume centred around letters will be of interest to scholars and students in a variety of fields including eighteenth century studies cultural history and literature

Falling into Matter Elizabeth R. Napier, 2012-03-08 Falling into Matter examines the complex role of the body in the development of the English novel in the eighteenth century Elizabeth R Napier argues that despite an increasing emphasis on the need to present ideas in corporeal terms early fiction writers continued to register spiritual and moral reservations about the centrality of the body to human and imaginative experience Drawing on six works of early English fiction Daniel Defoe's Robinson Crusoe Jonathan Swift's Gulliver's Travels Samuel Richardson's Clarissa Henry Fielding's Tom Jones Elizabeth Inchbald's A Simple Story and Mary Shelley's Frankenstein Napier examines how authors grappled with technical and philosophical issues of the body questioning its capacity for moral action its relationship to individual freedom and dignity and its role in the creation of art Falling into Matter charts the course of the early novel as its authors engaged formally stylistically and thematically with the increasingly insistent role of the body in the new genre

Irony and Earnestness in Eighteenth-Century Literature Shane Herron, 2022-01-27 Shane Herron demonstrates how eighteenth century irony was used not only in derision but also to clarify and sharpen emotional investments

Print, Visuality, and Gender in Eighteenth-Century Satire Katherine Mannheimer, 2012-05-23 This study interprets eighteenth century satire's famous typographical obsession as a fraught response to the Enlightenment's ocularcentric epistemological paradigms as well as to a print cultural moment identified by book historians as increasingly visual a moment at which widespread attention was being paid for the first time to format layout and eye catching advertising strategies On the one hand the Augustans were convinced of the ability of their elaborately printed texts to function as a kind of optical machinery rivaling that of the New Science enhancing readers physical but also moral vision On the other hand they feared that an overly scrutinizing gaze might undermine the viewer's natural faculty for candor and sympathy delight and desire In readings of Pope Swift and Montagu Mannheimer shows how this distrust of the empirical gaze led to a reconsideration of the ethics and most specifically the gender politics of ocularcentrism Whereas Montagu effected this reconsideration by directly satirizing both the era's faith in the visual and its attendant publishing strategies Pope and Swift pursued their critique via print itself thus whether via facing page translations fictional editors or disingenuous footnotes these writers sought to ensure that typography never became either a mere tool of or target for the objectifying gaze but rather that it remained a dynamic and interactive medium by which readers could learn both to see and to see themselves seeing

Reading Swift's Poetry

Daniel Cook, 2020-08-13 This book explicates Jonathan Swift's poetry reaffirming its prominence in competing literary traditions

Teaching Literature and Medicine Anne Hunsaker Hawkins, Marilyn Chandler McEntyre, 2016-01-01 Both the actualities and the metaphorical possibilities of illness and medicine abound in literature from the presence of tuberculosis in Franz Kafka's fiction or childbed fever in Mary Shelley's Frankenstein to disease in Thomas Mann's Death in Venice or in Harold Pinter's A Kind of Alaska from the stories of Anton Chekhov and of William Carlos Williams both doctors to the poetry of nurses derived from their contrasting experiences These are just a few examples of the cross pollination between literature and medicine It is no surprise then that courses in literature and medicine flourish in undergraduate curricula medical schools and continuing education programs throughout the United States and Canada This volume in the MLA series Options for Teaching presents a variety of approaches to the subject It is intended both for literary scholars and for physicians who teach literature and medicine or who are interested in enriching their courses in either discipline by introducing interdisciplinary dimensions The thirty four essays in Teaching Literature and Medicine describe model courses deal with specific texts authors and genres list readings widely taught in literature and medicine courses discuss the value of texts in both medical education and the practice of medicine and provide bibliographic resources including works in the history of medicine from classical antiquity
