Arctic Shorebirds in North America Jonathan Robert Bart, Victoria Helen Johnston, 2012-09-01 Each year shorebirds from North and South America migrate thousands of miles to spend the summer in the Arctic There they feed in shoreline marshes and estuaries along some of the most productive and pristine coasts anywhere With so much available food they are able to reproduce almost explosively and as winter approaches they retreat south along with their offspring to return to the Arctic the following spring This remarkable pattern of movement and activity has been the object of intensive study by an international team of ornithologists who have spent a decade counting surveying and observing these shorebirds In this important synthetic work they address multiple questions about these migratory bird populations How many birds occupy Arctic ecosystems each summer How long do visiting shorebirds linger before heading south How fecund are these birds Where exactly do they migrate and where exactly do they return Are their populations growing or shrinking The results of this study are crucial for better understanding how environmental policies will influence Arctic habitats as well as the far ranging winter habitats used by migratory shorebirds

Blue-Bird Weather Robert William Chambers, 2020-09-28 It was now almost too dark to distinguish objects duskier and vaguer became the flat world of marshes set here and there with cypress and bounded only by far horizons and at last land and water disappeared behind the gathered curtains of the night There was no sound from the waste except the wind among the withered reeds and the furrowing splash of wheel and hoof over the submerged causeway The boy who was driving had scarcely spoken since he strapped Marche's gun cases and valise to the rear of the rickety wagon at the railroad station Marche too remained silent preoccupied with his own reflections Wrapped in his fur lined coat arms folded he sat doubled forward feeling the Southern swamp chill busy with his bones Now and then he was obliged to relight his pipe but the cold bit at his fingers and he hurried to protect himself again with heavy gloves Bird Notes ,1914 Bird-lore ,1903
