Animals In Person Cultural Perspectives On Humananimal Intimacy:

Animals in Person John Knight,2020-08-29 Our relationship with animals is complex and contradictory we hunt kill and eat them yet we also love respect and protect them This ambivalent relationship is further complicated by the fact that we attribute human emotions and intelligence to animals We even go as far as likening them to children and treating them as family members Drawing on a diverse range of case studies Animals in Person attempts to unravel our close and fascinating link with the animal kingdom This book highlights the theme of cross species intimacy in contexts such as livestock care pet keeping and the use of animals in tourism The studies draw on data from different parts of the world including New Guinea Nepal India Japan Greece Britain The Netherlands and Australia Animals in Person documents the existence of relations between humans and animals that in many respects recall relations among humans themselves Interactions between

Animals and Humans in Graeco-Roman Antiquity Thorsten Fögen,Edmund V. Thomas,2017-08-21 The seventeen contributions to this volume written by leading experts show that animals and humans in Graeco Roman antiquity are interconnected on a variety of different levels and that their encounters and interactions often result from their belonging to the same structures networks and communities or at least from finding themselves together in a certain setting context or environment wittingly or unwittingly Papers explore the concrete categories of interaction between animals and humans that can be identified in what contexts they occur and what types of evidence can be productively used to examine the concept of interactions Articles in this volume take into account literary visual and other types of evidence A comprehensive research bibliography is also provided Human-Animal Relations in Tourism, Leisure and Development Carlos Monterrubio,Xavier

López-Medellín,Katherine Dashper,Helen Wadham,2025-04-17 Humans and animals have developed multiple and complex interactions in the fields of tourism leisure and development However much of the existing research on how humans and animals interact in these fields has emerged from within the context of developed countries As a result little has been documented about human animal interactions in the socioeconomic cultural and environmental contexts of countries in the Global South Specifically the diversity and complexity of interspecies relationships in tourism leisure and local development in Latin America have been largely ignored in Anglo Saxon literature This has resulted in a limited partial and hegemonic understanding and debate about human animal relationships globally dominated by certain regions of the world This book addresses this gap by documenting multiple and complex relationships between humans and animals in the fields of tourism leisure and local development in countries in Latin America Human-Animal Studies Margo DeMello,2012-04 An exhaustive listing of books journals articles films conferences college programs organizations and websites from the new and exciting discipline of Human Animal studies The information was gathered by leading academics in the humanities the social sciences and the natural sciences this is the only reference of its kind This project was completed in conjunction with the book Teaching the Animal Whale-watching James Higham,Lars Bejder,Rob Williams,2014-03-27 Within little more than a generation whale watching has been subject to global industrial development. It has been portrayed by destinations and business operators and advocated by environmental groups as a sustainable activity and an alternative to whaling. However, in recent years the sustainability of these activities has increasingly been questioned as research shows that repeated disturbance by boat traffic can severely disrupt critical behaviours of cetaceans in the wild. Bringing together contributions by international experts, this volume addresses complex issues associated with commercial whale watching, sustainable development and conservation of the global marine environment. It highlights widely expressed concerns for the failure of policy planning and management and pinpoints both long standing and emerging barriers to sustainable practice. Featuring numerous case studies, the book provides critical insights into the diverse socio-cultural, political, economic and ecological contexts of this global industry, highlighting the challenges and opportunities that arise along the pathways to sustainability.

Diversity of Sacrifice Carrie Ann Murray, 2016-05-09. The term sacrifice belies what is a complex and varied transhistorical and transcultural phenomenon. Bringing together scholars from such diverse fields as anthropology, archaeology, epigraphy, literature and theology, Diversity of Sacrifice explores sacrificial practices across a range of contexts from prehistory to the present. Incorporating theory, material culture and textual evidence, the volume seeks to consider new and divergent data related to contexts of sacrifice that can help broaden our field of vision while raising new questions. The essays contributed here move beyond reductive and simple explanations to explore complex areas of social interaction. Sacrifice plays a key role in the overlapping sacred and secular spheres for a number of societies in the past and present. How religious beliefs and practices can be integral parts of life on individual and community levels is of fundamental importance to understanding the past and present. In addition to aiding scholarly research, Diversity of Sacrifice enables students to explore this rich theme across Europe and the Mediterranean with clear discussions of theory and data.

Reading Slaughter Sune Borkfelt, 2022-05-06. Reading Slaughter: Abattoir Fictions, Space and Empathy in Late Modernity examines literary depictions of slaughterhouses from the development of the industrial abattoir in the late nineteenth century to today. The book focuses on how increasing and ongoing isolation and concealment of slaughter from the surrounding society affects readings and depictions of slaughter and abattoirs in literature and on the degree to which depictions of animals being slaughtered create an avenue for empathic reactions in the reader or the opportunity for reflections on human-animal relations. Through chapters on abattoir fictions in relation to narrative empathy, anthropomorphism, urban spaces, rural spaces, human identities and horror fiction, Sune Borkfelt contributes to debates in literary animal studies, human animal studies and beyond.

Isotope Research in Zooarchaeology Ashley E. Sharpe, John Krigbaum, 2022-11-15. New techniques for understanding animal and human interactions in the past. Through case studies of faunal remains from Roman Britain, prehistoric Southeast Asia, ancient African pastoral cultures and beyond, this volume illustrates some of the ways stable isotope analysis of ancient animals can address key questions in human prehistory. Contributors use a diverse set of isotopic techniques to investigate social and biological topics including human paleodiets and foodways hunting and procurement strategies exchange patterns animal husbandry and the genetic consequences of domestication and short and long term environmental change They demonstrate how different isotopes can be used alone or in conjunction to address questions of animal diet movement ecology and management Studies also examine how sampling strategies statistical techniques and regional and temporal considerations can influence isotopic results and interpretations By applying these new methods in concert with traditional zooarchaeological analyses archaeologists can explore questions about human ecology and environmental archaeology that were previously deemed inaccessible Race Matters, Animal Matters

Lindgren Johnson, 2017-11-08 Race Matters Animal Matters challenges one of the grand narratives of African American studies that African Americans rejected racist associations of blackness and animality through a disassociation from animality Analyzing canonical texts written by Frederick Douglass Charles Chesnutt Ida B Wells and James Weldon Johnson alongside slaughterhouse lithographs hunting photography and sheep husbandry manuals Lindgren Johnson argues instead for a critical African American tradition that at pivotal moments reconsiders and recuperates discourses of animality weaponized against both African Americans and animals Johnson articulates a theory of fugitive humanism in which these texts flee both white and human exceptionalism even as they move within and seek out a revised humanist space The focus for example is not on how African Americans shake off animal associations in demanding recognition of their humanity but on how they hold fast to animality and animals in making such a move revising the human itself as they go and undermining the binaries that helped to produce racial and animal injustices Fugitive humanism reveals how an interspecies ethics develops in these African American responses to violent dehumanization Illuminating those moments in which the African American canon exceeds human exceptionalism Race Matters Animal Matters ultimately shows how these black engagements with animals and animality are not subsequent to efforts for racial justice a mere extension of the abolitionist or antilynching movements but to the contrary are integral to those efforts This black authored temporality challenges widely accepted humanist approaches to the relationship between racial and animal justice as it anticipates and even critiques the valuable insights that animal studies and posthumanism have to offer in our current moment Domestication Gone Wild Heather Anne

Swanson, Marianne Elisabeth Lien, Gro B. Ween, 2018-09-27 The domestication of plants and animals is central to the familiar and now outdated story of civilization's emergence Intertwined with colonialism and imperial expansion the domestication narrative has informed and justified dominant and often destructive practices Contending that domestication retains considerable value as an analytical tool the contributors to Domestication Gone Wild reengage the concept by highlighting sites and forms of domestication occurring in unexpected and marginal sites from Norwegian fjords and Philippine villages to British falconry cages and South African colonial townships Challenging idioms of animal husbandry as human mastery and progress the contributors push beyond the boundaries of farms fences and cages to explore how situated relations with animals and plants are linked to the politics of human difference and conversely how politics are intertwined with plant and animal life Ultimately this volume promotes a novel decolonizing concept of domestication that radically revises its Euro and anthropocentric narrative Contributors Inger Anneberg Natasha Fijn Rune Flikke Frida Hastrup Marianne Elisabeth Lien Knut G Nustad Sara Asu Schroer Heather Anne Swanson Anna Lowenhaupt Tsing Mette Vaarst Gro B Ween Jon Henrik Ziegler Remme
