Governmental Intervention in Foreign Trade in

Archaic and Classical Greece Errietta M. A. Bissa,2009 Trade was a necessity in the ancient Greek world yet the prevalent scholarly view is that Greek states intervened in foreign trade only rarely and sporadically This book studies four necessary commodities gold silver ship building timber and grain from production through export to import Through the re evaluation of known evidence and the presentation of new avenues of research the book shows that Greek and non Greek governments in the archaic and classical periods intervened and involved themselves greatly in foreign trade The book offers the student of the Greek economy a fresh perspective on state intervention in trade and the ways in which intervention worked in the Greek world

Ancient West Asian Civilization Akira Tsuneki,Shigeo Yamada,Ken-ichiro Hisada,2016-08-19 This book explores aspects of the ancient civilization in West Asia which has had a great impact on modern human society agriculture metallurgy cities writing regional states and monotheism all of which appeared first in West Asia during the tenth to first millennia BC The editors specifically use the term West Asia since the Middle East is seen as an Eurocentric term By using this term the book hopes to mitigate potential bias i e historical and Western by using a pure geographical term However the West Asia region is identical to that of the narrower Middle East which encompasses modern Iran and Turkey from east to west and Turkey and the Arabian Peninsula from north to south This volume assembles research from different disciplines such as the natural sciences archaeology and philology linguistics in order to tackle the question of which circumstances and processes these significant cultural phenomena occurred in West Asia Scrutinizing subjects such as the relations between climate geology and human activities the origins of wheat cultivation and animal domestication the development of metallurgy the birth of urbanization and writing ancient religious traditions as well as the treatment of cultural heritage the book undertakes a comprehensive analysis of West Asian Civilization that provided the common background to cultures in various areas of the globe including Europe and Asia These contributions will attempt to demonstrate a fresh vision which emphasizes the common cultural origin between Europe and West Asia standing in opposition to the global antagonism symbolized by the theory of Clash of Civilizations

Temples and Sanctuaries from the Early Iron Age Levant William E. Mierse,2012-10-15 The vision for this impressive work on temple architecture in the Levant grew out of the author s work on Roman temple designs on the Iberian Peninsula and continual references to Semitic influences on the designs of sanctuaries both on the Peninsula and in North Africa It was assumed that Phoenician colonization had brought with it the full flowering of Levantine architectural forms As Mierse began to search for relevant material on the ancient Levant however he discovered that no overall synthesis had ever been written and it was virtually impossible to recognize and isolate Semitic elements in architectural forms This book addresses this need The analysis presented here is comparative and follows the methodology most commonly employed by architectural historians throughout the twentieth century. It is a formalist approach and permits the isolation of lines of continuity and the detection of discontinuity. While Mierse relies heavily on this traditional method, he also introduces some approaches from the postprocessual school of archaeology in its attempts to discern an appropriate way for cult to be investigated by archaeology. The sanctuaries that this book presents were erected between the end of the Late Bronze Age (conventionally assigned the date of 1200 B.C.E.) and the annexation of the Levantine region into the Assyrian Empire, when Mesopotamia again became highly influential in the region. The topic concerns temples that were produced during the period when the Levant was its own entity and politically independent of Egypt, Mesopotamia, or Anatolia. During this period, the designs chosen for inclusion in this book must reflect local choices rather than resulting from imposed outside concepts. The architecture that emerged in the wake of the downfall of the Late Bronze Age and the subsequent reemergence of social cohesiveness manifested significant changes in form and function. The five centuries under review reveal exciting developments in sacred architecture and show that although the architects of the first millennium B.C.E. maintained important lines of continuity with the developments of the previous two millennia, they were also capable of creating novel forms to meet new needs. Included in this fascinating volume are 90 pages of photos, drawings, floor plans, and maps. Ancient West & East, 2010
