most significant recent results in the field of mathematical oncology It highlights the work of world class research teams and explores how different researchers approach the same problem in various ways Tumors are complex entities that present numerous challenges to the mathematical modeler First and foremost they grow Thus their spatial mean field description involves a free boundary problem Second their interiors should be modeled as nontrivial porous media using constitutive equations Third at the end of anti cancer therapy a small number of malignant cells remain making the post treatment dynamics inherently stochastic Fourth the growth parameters of macroscopic tumors are non constant as are the parameters of anti tumor therapies Changes in these parameters may induce phenomena that are mathematically equivalent to phase transitions Fifth tumor vascular growth is random and self similar Finally the drugs used in chemotherapy diffuse and are taken up by the cells in nonlinear ways Mathematical Oncology 2013 will appeal to graduate students and researchers in biomathematics computational and theoretical biology biophysics and bioengineering Vulnerability to Poverty M.
