A Mapmakers Dream:

A Mapmaker's Dream James Cowan, 1997 A compelling work of historical re creation philosophical intrigue and spiritual enquiry a sixteenth century monk struggles to create a complete and perfect map of the world In sixteenth century Venice in an island monastery a cloistered monk experiences the adventure of a lifetime all within the confines of his cell Part historical fiction part philosophical mystery A Mapmaker s Dream tells the story of Fra Mauro and his struggle to realise his life s work to make a perfect map one that represents the full breadth of Creation News of Mauro s project attracts explorers pilgrims travellers and merchants all eager to contribute their accounts of faraway people and places As he listens to the tales of the strange and fantastic things they ve seen Mauro comes to regard the world as much more than just continents and kingdoms that it is also made up of a vast and equally real interior landscape of beliefs aspirations and dreams Mauro s map grows and takes shape becoming both more complete and more incomprehensible In the process the boundaries of Mauro s world are pushed to the extreme raising questions about the relationship between representation imagination and the nature of reality itself Praise for A Mapmaker s Dream Full of startling leaps of imagination and thought this small gem of a book proves that the mind s desire can be seaworthy a vessel as a schooner exploring new world s US Publishers Weekly An unquestionably brilliant contemplation of maps both esoteric and exoteric that propels the literary traveller into a series of philosophical and meditative twists and turns that never fail to astonish and provoke Rudolph Wurlitzer author of Hard to Travel to Sacred Places To read this multilayered journey around the world and across time is to fall headlong into the emotional tumult of an antique map one with sea serpents devouring ships and fair winds blowing out of cherubs mouths James Cowan tells the farthest flung adventure story through the eyes of a monk who never leaves his cell And every exotic word works Dava Sobel author of Longitude

The Spatial Construction of Organization Tor Hernes, 2004-01-29 An important challenge to organization theory is to search for constructs that explain how contexts for work emerge, evolve, persist, and change. This book explores the concept of space as representing a wide variety of contexts. Organization as a process, as distinguished from organization as an entity, is seen as the construction of space where space is the outcome of human action and interaction, as well as providing a context for actions and interaction. The book shows how different forms of space lie at the base of a number of developments in organization theory. It then takes the step to show how contemporary developments in social science, represented by works by writers such as Giddens, Luhmann, Latour, and Bourdieu, can be used to establish a dynamic understanding of organization as space. Insights from these discussions are used to establish a unique and coherent way of understanding complexities of modern organization.

The Mapmakers John Noble Wilford, 2001-12-04 In his classic text, two-time Pulitzer Prize winner John Noble Wilford recounts the history of cartography from antiquity to the space age. They are among the world's great pioneers and adventurers, the mapmakers who for centuries have been expanding our knowledge of who and where we are and where we want to go. From the surprisingly accurate silk maps prepared by Chinese cartographers in the second century B.C. to medieval mapmakers who believed they had fixed the location of paradise through to the expeditions of Columbus and Magellan, John Noble Wilford chronicles the exploits of the great pioneers of mapmaking. Wilford brings the story up to the present day as he shows the impact of new technologies that make it possible for cartographers to go where no one has been before, from the deepest reaches of the universe where astronomers are mapping time as well as space to the inside of the human brain. These modern-day mapmakers join the many earlier adventurers, including ancient Greek stargazers, Renaissance seafarers, and the explorers who mapped the American West, whose achievements shape this dramatic story of human inventiveness and limitless curiosity. Faulkner in the Twenty-First Century Robert W. Hamblin, Ann J.

Abadie, 2009-09-18 Contributions by Deborah N. Cohn, Leigh Anne Duck, Robert W. Hamblin, Michael Kreyling, Barbara Ladd, Walter Benn Michaels, Patrick O'Donnell, Theresa M. Towner, Annette Trefzer, and Karl F. Zender. Faulkner in the Twenty-First Century presents the thoughts of ten noted Faulkner scholars who spoke at the twenty-seventh annual Faulkner and Yoknapatawpha Conference at the University of Mississippi. Theresa M. Towner attacks the traditional classification of Faulkner's works as major and minor and argues that this causes the neglect of other significant works and characters. Michael Kreyling uses photographs of Faulkner to analyze the interrelationships of Faulkner's texts with the politics and culture of Mississippi. Barbara Ladd and Deborah Cohn invoke the relevance of Faulkner's works to the other South, postcolonial Latin America. Also approaching Faulkner from a postcolonial perspective, Annette Trefzer looks at his contradictory treatment of Native Americans. Within the tragic fates of such characters as Quentin Compson, Gail Hightower, and Rosa Coldfield, Leigh Ann Duck finds an inability to cope with painful memories. Patrick O'Donnell examines the use of the future tense and Faulkner's growing skepticism of history as a linear progression To postmodern critics who denigrate The Fire and the Hearth Karl F Zender offers a rebuttal Walter Benn Michaels contends that in Faulkner's South and indeed the United States as a whole the question of racial identification tends to overpower all other issues Faulkner's recurring interest in frontier life and values inspires Robert W Hamblin's piece Principles of Neuroanatomy Jay B. Angevine, Carl W. Cotman, 1981 An excellent point of departure for all who undertake the study of the connections between the nervous system and behavior Neuropsychologia Enthusiastically recommended to readers being introduced to neuroanatomy The New England Journal of Medicine Provides a much more comprehensible account of the nervous system than most others that are available and relates structure to current views as to functional organization in an interesting and helpful manner Brain

The Chronicles of Panchita Villa and Other Guerrilleras Tey Diana Rebolledo, 2005 Although there have been substantial contributions to Chicana literature and criticism over the past few decades Chicanas are still underrepresented and underappreciated in the mainstream literary world and virtually nonexistent in the canon Writers like Sandra Cisneros Ana Castillo and Gloria Anzald'a have managed to find larger audiences and critical respect but there are legions of Chicana writers and artists who have been marginalized and ignored despite their talent Even in Chicano anthologies the focus has tended to be more on male writers Chicanas have often found themselves without a real home in the academic world Tey Diana Rebolledo has been writing about Chicana Latina identity literature discrimination and feminism for more than two decades In this collection of essays she brings together both old and new works to give a state of the moment look at the still largely unanswered questions raised by vigilant women of color throughout the last half of the twentieth century An intimate introductory essay about Rebolledo's personal experiences as the daughter of a Mexican mother and a Peruvian father serves to lay the groundwork for the rest of the volume The essays delve into the historical development of Chicana writing and its early narratives the representation of Chicanas as seen on book covers Chicana feminism being a Chicana critic in the academy Chicana art history and Chicana creativity Rebolledo encourages guerrillera warfare against academia in order to open up the literary canon to Chicana Latina writers who deserve validation Narratives of Qualitative Research Josh Tenenberg, 2024-05-21 Narratives of Qualitative Research uses a novel form of writing about how to do qualitative research called a praxis narrative Each narrative is told from the author's perspective in carrying out one of his past research studies in the social sciences Told chronologically and in a first person voice the narratives position the reader alongside the narrator so as to vicariously experience how research happens in its situated particulars Rather than a set of idealizations and universalized pronouncements the author reveals what really goes on when one is in the thick of complex and challenging research studies the points of trouble along with the successes This will be relevant to researchers who have already undertaken one or more empirical research studies though not necessarily using qualitative approaches and now find themselves facing something new a new analytic method a new theoretical lens a new form of data collection a new domain of research questions a new rhetorical approach This requires letting go of the secure handholds of prescribed methods and responding to the contingencies that arise in the midst of the research The reader is invited to follow along as the author makes visible his praxis of qualitative research Unlike more conventional texts in this unique alternative the reader can follow the author's journey through his research studies as a way to reorient their conception of qualitative research and their own praxis of it This is fascinating reading for qualitative researchers and students taking qualitative research courses across the social sciences education and behavioural sciences
