Boswell,Adrienne I. Greve,Tammy L. Seale,2012-07-16 Climate change is a global problem but the problem begins locally Cities consume 75% of the world s energy and emit 80% of the world s greenhouse gases Changing the way we build and operate our cities can have major effects on greenhouse gas emissions Fortunately communities across the U S are responding to the climate change problem by making plans that assess their contribution to greenhouse gas emissions and specify actions they will take to reduce these emissions This is the first book designed to help planners municipal staff and officials citizens and others working at local levels to develop Climate Action Plans CAPs are strategic plans that establish policies and programs for mitigating a community s greenhouse gas GHGs emissions They typically focus on transportation energy use and solid waste and often differentiate between community wide actions and municipal agency actions CAPs are usually based on GHG emissions inventories which indentify the sources of emissions from the community and quantify the amounts Additionally many CAPs include a section addressing adaptation how the community will respond to the impacts of climate change on the community such as increased flooding extended drought or sea level rise With examples drawn from actual plans Local Climate Action Planning guides preparers of CAPs through the entire plan development process identifying the key considerations and choices that must be made in order to assure that a plan is both workable and effective Building Healthy Places Toolkit Urban Land Institute,2015 This project was made possible through the generous financial support of the Colorado Health Foundation Additional support for the ULI Building Healthy Places Initiative has been provided by the estate of Melvin Simon How Green is My Library? Sam McBane Mulford,Ned A. Himmel,2009-12-22 While there is a broad spectrum of ecological sophistication within libraries nationwide and some regions are at the forefront of sustainable of sustainable design and operations others are just beginning or have yet to integrate materials recycling into their daily practice A few jurisdictions are mandating LEED certified buildings and carbon neutral practices while others do not yet have these concepts on their radars Microbiomes of the Built Environment National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine,National Academy of Engineering,Division on Engineering and Physical Sciences,Health and Medicine Division,Division on Earth and Life Studies,Board on Infrastructure and the Constructed Environment,Board on Environmental Studies and Toxicology,Board on Life Sciences,Committee on Microbiomes of the Built Environment: From Research to Application,2017-11-06 People s desire to understand the environments in which they live is a natural one People spend most of their time in spaces and structures designed built and managed by humans and it is estimated that people in developed countries now spend 90 percent of their lives indoors As people move from homes to workplaces traveling in cars and on transit systems microorganisms are continually with and around them The human associated microbes that are shed along with the human behaviors that affect their transport and removal make significant contributions to the diversity of the indoor microbiome The characteristics of healthy indoor environments cannot yet be defined nor do microbial clinical and building researchers yet understand how to modify features of indoor environments such as building ventilation systems and the chemistry of building materials in ways that would have predictable impacts on microbial communities to promote health and prevent disease The factors that affect the environments within buildings the ways in which building characteristics influence the composition and function of indoor microbial communities and the ways in which these microbial communities relate to human health and well being are extraordinarily complex and can be explored only as a dynamic interconnected ecosystem by engaging the fields of microbial biology and ecology chemistry building science and human physiology This report reviews what is known about the intersection of these disciplines and how new tools may facilitate advances in understanding the ecosystem of built environments indoor microbiomes and effects on human health and well being It offers a research agenda to generate the information needed so that stakeholders with an interest in understanding the impacts of built environments will be able to make more informed decisions
