Abstract Data Types In Standard ML:

Abstract Data Types in Standard ML Rachel Harrison, 1993-08-27 Abstract Data Types in Standard ML Rachel Harrison University of Southampton UK This book presents a thorough treatment of data abstraction within a functional framework The approach to abstract data types strikes a balance between the theoretical and the practical stressing the importance of producing reliable high quality code which is robust and reusable Exercises are provided as well as numerous annotated algorithms in Standard ML Emphasis is placed on the key concepts of specification modularity and generality Each chapter shows how to specify apply and implement generic abstract data types and the specifications are used to verify and validate the correctness of the implementations Students of software engineering will find this book particularly attractive for courses such as advanced programming program design algorithms and data structures and program specification It will also serve as a useful post introductory text for courses on functional programming Elementary Standard ML G

Recent Trends in Data Type Specification Hartmut Ehrig, 1991 The algebraic specification of abstract data types is now a well established research topic in computer science This area influences both applications and theoretical foundations of methodologies which support the design and formal development of reliable software The Seventh Workshop on Specification of Abstract Data Types took place in Wusterhausen Dosse April 17 20 1990 and was organized in cooperation with the ESPRIT

Logic of Programming and Calculi of Discrete Design Manfred Broy, 2012-12-06 In computing science design plays an eminently important role By now it is quite clear that the issue of proper design of programs within a formal calculus is one of the most interesting and most difficult parts of computing science Many demanding problems have to be envisaged here such as notations rules and calculi and the study of semantic models We are far away from comprehensive and widely accepted solutions in these areas Discussions at the summer school have clearly shown that people have quite different perspectives and priorities with respect to these three main areas There is a general agreement that notation is very important Here notation is not so much used in the sense of syntactic sugar but rather in the sense of abstract syntax in the sense of language constructs Proper notation can significantly improve our understanding of the nature of the objects that we are dealing with and simplify the formal manipulation of these objects However influenced by educational background habits and schools of thought there are quite different tastes with respect to notation The papers in these proceedings show very clearly how different those notations can be even when talking about quite similar objects Declarative Programming, Sasbachwalden 1991 John Darlington, Roland Dietrich, 2013-12-21 Declarative programming languages are based on sound mathematical foundations which means that they offer many advantages for software development These advantages include their powerful descriptive capabilities the availability of program analysis techniques and the potential for parallel execution

This volume contains the proceedings of a seminar and workshop organised by the Esprit Basic Research Action Phoenix in collaboration with the Esprit Basic Research Action Integration. Both these groups have been closely involved in investigating the foundations of declarative programming and the integration of various language paradigms as well as the developing aspects of related technology. The main aim of the seminar and workshop was to provide a forum for the results of this work together with contributions from other researchers in the same field. These papers cover a variety of important technical areas such as foundations and languages, program transformation and analysis, integrated approaches, implementation techniques, abstract machines and programming methodology. The resulting volume provides an in depth picture of current research into declarative programming. It will be of special interest to researchers in programming languages and methodology, students of artificial intelligence and anyone involved in industrial research and development.
