Beast In The Boudoir Petkeeping In:

The Beast in the Boudoir Kathleen Kete, 1994-01-01 Kete uses relatively obscure material as a prism to refract important changes in sensibility Her book offers a brilliant new way of understanding the traumas of modernity Thomas W Laqueur author of Making Sex Knowledge and Pain, 2012-01-01 Pain studies both in exact sciences and in the humanities are a fast shifting field This volume condenses a spectrum of recent views of pain through the lens of humanistic studies Methodologically the volume is an interdisciplinary study of the questions pertaining to the accessibility of pain physical or emotional to understanding and of the possible influence of suffering on the enhancement of knowledge in private experience or public sphere Undeterred by the widespread belief that pain cannot be expressed in language and that it is intransmissible to others the authors of the essays in the collection show that the replicability of records and narratives of human experience provides a basis for the kind of empathetic attention dialogue and contact that can help us to register the pain of another and understand its conditions and contexts Needless to say the improvement of this understanding may also help map the ways for the ethics of response to and help for pain Whereas the authors of the volume tend to share the view of pain as a totally negative phenomenon the position taken in Elaine Scarry's The Body in Pain they hold this view applicable mainly to the attitudes to the pain of others and the imperative of minimise the causes of another's suffering They also consider this view to be culturally and temporally circumscribed The volume suggests that one's own personal experience of suffering along with the awareness of the seriality of such experience among fellow sufferers can be conducive to emotional and intellectual growth The reading of literature dealing with pain can lead to similar results through vicariously experienced suffering whose emotional corollaries and intellectual consequences may be conveyed through artistic rather than discursive means The distinctive features of the volume are that it processes these issues in a historicising way deploying the history of the ideas of pain from the Middle Ages to the present day and that it makes use of the methodology of different disciplines to do so arriving to similar conclusions through as it were different paths The disciplines include analytic philosophy historiography history of science oral history literary studies and political science Dogopolis Chris Pearson, 2024-05-31 Dogopolis presents a surprising source for urban innovation in the history of three major cities human canine relationships Stroll through any American or European city today and you probably won't get far before seeing a dog being taken for a walk It's expected that these domesticated animals can easily navigate sidewalks streets and other foundational elements of our built environment But what if our cities were actually shaped in response to dogs more than we ever realized Chris Pearson's Dogopolis boldly and convincingly asserts that human canine relations were a crucial factor in the formation of modern urban living Focusing on New York London and Paris from the early nineteenth century into the 1930s Pearson shows that human reactions to dogs significantly remolded them and other contemporary western cities It's an unalterable fact that dogs often filthy bellicose and sometimes off putting run away spread rabies defecate and breed wherever they like so as dogs became a more and more common in nineteenth century middle class life cities had to respond to people's fear of them and revulsion at their least desirable traits The gradual integration of dogs into city life centered on disgust at dirt fear of crime and vagrancy and the promotion of humanitarian sentiments On the other hand dogs are some people's most beloved animal companions and human compassion and affection for pets and strays were equally powerful forces in shaping urban modernity Dogopolis details the complex interrelations among emotions sentiment and the ways we manifest our feelings toward what we love showing that together they can actually reshape society

The Rights of the Defenseless

Susan J. Pearson, 2020-10-12 In 1877 the American Humane Society was formed as the national organization for animal and child protection Thirty years later there were 354 anticruelty organizations chartered in the United States nearly 200 of which were similarly invested in the welfare of both humans and animals In The Rights of the Defenseless Susan J Pearson seeks to understand the institutional cultural legal and political significance of the perceived bond between these two kinds of helpless creatures and the attempts made to protect them Unlike many of today's humane organizations those Pearson follows were delegated police powers to make arrests and bring cases of cruelty to animals and children before local magistrates Those whom they prosecuted were subject to fines jail time and the removal of either animal or child from their possession Pearson explores the limits of and motivation behind this power and argues that while these reformers claimed nothing more than sympathy with the helpless and a desire to protect their rights they turned cruelty into a social problem stretched government resources and expanded the state through private associations The first book to explore these dual organizations and their storied history The Rights of the Defenseless will appeal broadly to reform minded historians and social theorists alike

Animals, Machines, and AI Erika Quinn, Holly Yanacek, 2021-11-08

Sentient animals machines and robots abound in German literature and culture but there has been surprisingly limited scholarship on non human life forms in German studies This volume extends interdisciplinary research in emotion studies to examine non humans and the affective relationships between humans and non humans in modern German cultural history In recent years fascination with emotions developments in robotics and the burgeoning of animal studies in and beyond the academy have given rise to questions about the nature of humanity Using sources from the life sciences literature visual art poetry philosophy and photography this collection interrogates not animal or machine emotions per se but rather uses animals and machines as lenses through which to investigate human emotions and the affective entanglements between humans and non humans The COVID 19 pandemic made us more keenly aware of the importance of both animals and new technologies in our daily lives and this volume ultimately sheds light on the centrality of non humans in the human emotional world and the possibilities that relationships with non humans offer for enriching that world Watch our talk with the editors Erika Quinn and Holly Yanacek here https://youtu.be/RBMwXah\_Om8

Picturing Evolution and Extinction Fae Brauer, 2015-10-05

With the increasing loss of biological diversity in this Sixth Age of Mass Extinction it is timely to show that devolutionary paranoia is not new but rather stretches back to the time of Charles Darwin. It is also an opportune moment to show how human driven extinction as designated by the term Anthropocene has long been acknowledged. The halcyon days of European industrial progress, colonial expansion and scientific revolution trumpeted from the Great Exhibition of 1851 until the Dresden International Hygiene Exhibition of 1930 were constantly marred by fears of rampant degeneration, depopulation, national decline, environmental devastation and racial extinction. This is demonstrated by the discourses of catastrophism charted in this book that percolated across Europe in response to the theories of Darwin and Jean Baptiste Lamarck as well as Marcellin Berthelot, Camille Flammarion, Ernst Haeckel, Louis Landouzy, Félix Le Dantec, Cesare Lombroso, Thomas Huxley, Augustin Morel, Louis Pasteur, Émile Reclus, Rudolf Steiner and Wilhelm Wundt among others. This book presents pioneering explorations of the interrelationship between these discourses and modern visual cultures and the ways in which the picturing of evolution and extinction by artists as diverse as Roger Broders, Albert Besnard, Fernand Cormon, Henri Dufau, mile Gall, František Kupka, Pablo Picasso, Carles Mani y Roig, Sophie Taeuber and Vasili Vatagin betrayed anxieties subliminally festering over degeneration alongside latent hopes of regeneration. Following Darwin's concept of evolution as Janus faced, the dialectical interplay of evolution and extinction and degeneration and regeneration is explored in modern visual cultures in Australia, America, Britain, France, Germany, Russia, Spain and Switzerland at significant spatio-temporal junctures between 1860 and 1930. By unravelling the picturing of the dread of alcoholism, cholera, dysentery, tuberculosis, typhoid and rabies alongside phobias of animalism, criminality, hysteria, impotency and ecological disaster, each chapter makes an original contribution to this new field of scholarship. By locating these discourses and visual cultures within the golden age of Neo-Lamarckism, they also reveal how regeneration was pictured as the Janus face of degeneration, able to facilitate evolution through the inheritance of beneficial characteristics in propitious environments. In striking such an uplifting note amidst the dissonant cacophony of catastrophism, this book reveals why the art and science of Transformism proved so appealing in France as elsewhere and why visual cultures of regeneration became as dominant in the twentieth century as the picturing of degeneration had been in the nineteenth century. It also illuminates the paradoxical inversion that occurred in the twentieth century when devolution became equivalent to evolution for many Modernists. Hence, whilst this book opens with the picturing of indigenous people in Australia and North America as doomed races by the first publication of Darwin's On The Origin of Species, it closes with the quest by 1930 for a regenerative suntan as dark as the skin of those indigenous people.

Victorian Animal Dreams Deborah Denenholz Morse, Martin A. Danahay, 2017-05-15. The Victorian period witnessed the beginning of a debate on the status of animals that continues today. This volume explicitly acknowledges the way twenty-first century deliberations about animal rights and the fact of past and prospective animal extinction haunt the discussion of the Victorians' obsession with animals. Combining close attention to historical detail with a sophisticated analytical framework, the contributors examine the various forms of human dominion over animals, including imaginative possession of animals in the realms of fiction performance and the visual arts as well as physical control as manifest in hunting killing vivisection and zookeeping The diverse range of topics analyzed from a contemporary perspective makes the volume a significant contribution to Victorian studies The conclusion by Harriet Ritvo the pre eminent authority in the field of Victorian animal studies provides valuable insight into the burgeoning field of animal studies and points toward future studies of animals in the Victorian period Cultural Studies and Environment, Revisited Phaedra. C Pezzullo, 2013-10-31 The environment is perhaps most misunderstood as a static place somewhere out there separated from the practices of our everyday lives Given this assumption environmental movements and concerns have remained mostly marginalized or denigrated in cultural studies publications conferences and presentations Recent global developments have made changing this oversight and at times direct resistance to engaging environmental concerns a new priority This edited collection illustrates an appreciation of the dynamic palpable and significant ways the environment permeates culture and vice versa as well as a collective commitment to the ways that cultural studies has more to offer and to learn from taking environmental matters to heart Like foundational categories of identity economics and historical context this collection reminds us why the environment is and should be considered relevant to any work done in the name of cultural studies Including research from four continents and across media the authors offer insights on timely topics such as food tourism human animal relations forests queer theory indigenous rights and water This book was published as a special issue of Cultural Studies Shared Lives of Humans and Animals Tuomas Räsänen, Taina Syrjämaa, 2017-04-21 The book focuses on animal agency and interactions between humans and animals It explores the reciprocity of human animal relations and the capacity of animals to act and shape human societies The chapters draw on examples from the Global North to explore questions of how industrialization urbanization and human life in modernity have been a Victims of Fashion Helen Louise Cowie, 2021-11-18 Animal products were used extensively in nineteenth century Britain A middle class Victorian woman might wear a dress made of alpaca wool drape herself in a sealskin jacket brush her hair with a tortoiseshell comb and sport feathers in her hat She might entertain her friends by playing a piano with ivory keys or own a parrot or monkey as a living fashion accessory In this innovative study Helen Cowie examines the role of these animal based commodities in Britain in the long nineteenth century and traces their rise and fall in popularity in response to changing tastes availability and ethical concerns Focusing on six popular animal products feathers sealskin ivory alpaca wool perfumes and exotic pets she considers how animal commodities were sourced and processed how they were marketed and how they were consumed She also assesses the ecological impact of nineteenth century fashion
