Bryggen ,1982 King's Lynn and the Fens John McNeill,2017-07-05 The fourteen papers collected in this volume explore the medieval art architecture and archaeology of King s Lynn and the Fens They arise out of the Association s 2005 conference and reflect its concern to engage with a broad range of monuments and themes rather than focusing on a single major building Within King s Lynn contributors consider the superb 14th century enamelled drinking vessel popularly known as King John s Cup the former Hanseatic Steelyard the Red Mount Chapel and the oak furnishings of the chapel of St Nicholas while the pine standard chest from St Margaret s church is assessed in terms of the importation and distribution of similar chest across England as a whole Outside King s Lynn there are articles on the historical manipulation of landscapes and buildings at Kirkstead the 13th century architecture and sculpture of Croyland Abbey the 14th century parish church of St Mary at Snettisham the tomb of Sir Humphrey de Littlebury at All Saints Holbeach the overlooked medieval wall paintings in the Prior s Chapel at Castle Acre and the late medieval stained glass at Wiggshall St Mary Magdalen Finally there are three papers that look at particular aspects of the ways in which parish churches were financed embellished and used across the region in terms of late 12th and early 13th century patronage their 12th century deployment of architectural sculpture and the types and arrangements of choir stalls that appeared at a parochial level during the later Middle Ages A

Introduction to Maritime and Underwater Archaeology Ben Ford,Jessi J. Halligan,Alexis Catsambis,2020-04-07 Our Blue Planet provides a comprehensive introduction to the field of maritime and underwater archaeology Situating the field within the broader study of history and archaeology this book advocates that an understanding of how our ancestors interacted with rivers lakes and oceans is integral to comprehending the human past Our Blue Planet covers the full breadth of maritime and underwater archaeology including formerly terrestrial sites drowned by rising sea levels coastal sites and a wide variety of wreck sites ranging across the globe and spanning from antiquity to World War II Beginning with a definition of the field and several chapters dedicated to the methods of finding recording and interpreting submerged sites Our Blue Planet provides an entry point for all readers whether or not they are familiar with maritime and underwater archaeology or archaeology in general The book then shifts to a thematic approach with chapters exploring human interactions with the watery world both along the coasts and by ship These chapters discuss the relationships between culture technology and environment that allowed humans through time to spread across the globe Because ships were the primary means for humans to interact with large bodies of water they are the focus of several chapters on the development of shipbuilding technology the lives of sailors and the uses of ships in exploration expansion and warfare The book ends with chapters on how and why the non renewable submerged archaeological record should be managed so that both current and future generations can learn from the achievements and failures of past societies as well as on how anyone can become involved in maritime and underwater archaeology Throughout the reader benefits from the personal reflections of a number of leading figures in the field

Trade, Diplomacy and Cultural Exchange Hanno Brand, 2005 Commercial relations between the North Sea area and the Baltic contributed in a fundamental way to Holland's economic dominance in the seventeenth century They were embedded in a region where numerous expressions of a common culture facilitated the mobility of people and commodities or the spreading of tastes and ideas The German Hansa played a very important role in this process but also after its decline economic contacts between the North Sea region and the Baltic continued and with them a prolonged process of cultural interaction This volume describes the interconnections of the various aspects of the common economic culture in the region between ca 1350 and 1750

Medieval Scandinavia Birgit Sawyer, 1993 The study of Scandinavia has been and still is deeply influenced by the interpretation of its earliest history that was developed in the 19th century by political legal and literary historians archaeologists and anthropologists Scandinavia figured prominently in discussions of early medieval Europe not only as the homeland of the Vikings but also as the region in which Germanic society remained uncontaminated by Christianity and other influences longer than anywhere else In Medieval Scandinavia Birgit and Peter Sawyer question assumptions about early Scandinavian history including the supposed leading role of free and equal peasants and their position in founding churches They meticulously trace the development of Scandinavia from the early ninth century through the second and third decades of the 16th century when rulers of Scandinavia rejected the authority of the Papacy and the attempt to establish a united Scandinavian monarchy finally collapsed The authors include a discussion of medieval history writing and comment on the use of history in the 16th century and modern attitudes to medieval history which differ in various parts of Scandinavia They ultimately conclude that historic Scandinavia held greater similarities to other European regions than has been commonly supposed Birgit Sawyer is one of the founders of the biennial interdisciplinary conferences on women in medieval Scandinavia Peter Sawyer's previous books include Kings and Vikings and The Age of the Vikings

Sheaths and Scabbards from Medieval Bergen Ole-Magne Nøttveit, 2010 Language Contact and Development around the North Sea Merja Stenroos, Martti Mäkinen, Inge Særheim, 2012-04-18 This volume brings together eleven studies on the history of language and writing in the North Sea area with focus on contacts and interchanges through time Its range spans from the investigation of pre Germanic place names to present day Shetland the materials studied include glosses legal and trade documents as well as place names and modern dialects The volume is unique in its combination of linguistics and place name studies with literacy studies which allows for a very dynamic picture of the history of language contact and texts in the North Sea area Different approaches come together to illuminate a major insight the omnipresence of multilingualism as a context for language development and a formative characteristic of literacy Among the contributors are experts on English Nordic and German language history The book will be of interest to a wide range of scholars and students working on the history of Northern European languages literacy studies and language contact
