Beurs Blacks Entreprise:

Le bal des dirigeantes Annie Battle, Sandra Battle-Nelson, 2011-07-07 Les rares femmes au pouvoir dans l'entreprise ou en politique ont longtemps été considérées avec méfiance. Suspectes d'être pire que les hommes d'avoir aussi grisé une promotion canapé d'avoir de l'ambition, un gros mot pour le sexe faible.

Le petit collège gaulois Vincent Farjon, 2025-06-20 Ce livre est un plaidoyer optimiste sur ce qu'il est possible de réaliser dans un collège. Un endroit où une communauté travaillerait de concert et en harmonie, le panouissement de chacun de ses membres. Il raconte la réalité d'un tablisement entre 2007 et 2012. Il a construit des stéréotypes et des solutions toutes faites. Il se veut utile tous ceux les professeurs parents qui rencontrent le problème du fatalisme, la résignation ou l'injustice.

Black France Dominic Thomas, 2007 Without a doubt one of the most important studies so far completed on literature in French grounded in the experiences of migrants of sub-Saharan African origin. Alec Hargreaves, Florida State University. France has always hosted a rich and vibrant black presence within its borders. But recent violent events have raised questions about France's treatment of ethnic minorities. Challenging the identity politics that have set immigrants against the mainstream, Black France explores how black expressive culture has been reformulated as global culture in the multicultural and multinational spaces of France. Thomas brings forward questions such as: Why is France a privileged site of civilization? Who is French? Who is an immigrant? Who controls the networks of production? Black France poses an urgently needed reassessment of the French colonial legacy.

Ethnic Minority Women's Writing in France Claire Mouflard, 2020-11-17 In Ethnic Minority Women's Writing in France, Mouflard argues that the identity politics surrounding the immigration discourse of early twenty-first century France were reflected in the marketing and editing practices of the Metropole's key publishers, specifically with regards to non-white French women's literature. Echoing the utopic Black Blanc Beur model of integration which surfaced during the 1998 soccer World Cup, select publishers fashioned unofficial literary categories based on neocolonial racial and gender stereotypes, either lauding integrated Beur authors or exploiting Black political dissenters. Concurrently, metropolitan women writers in their autobiographies, autofictions, and manifestoes problematized notions of French multiculturalism and literary hierarchies, thereby exposing the dangers of utopian thinking. Mouflard ultimately reveals that the absence of the Franco-Vietnamese identity from the Black Blanc Beur paradigm enabled authors of Southeastern Asian origin to establish themselves outside of the era's reductive multicultural utopia within a realm directly adjacent to literature française, if not in a newly designed, truly multicultural French literature category. Overall, Mouflard's research highlights the discrepancies between France's official discourse on immigration and the actual identity formation processes created by the institutions and exploited by influential publishers in the years leading to the historic 2005 banlieue civil unrest.

Black French Women and the Struggle for Equality, 1848-2016 Félix Germain, Silyane Larcher, 2018-10 Black French Women and the Struggle for Equality 1848-2016 explores how black women in France itself, the French Caribbean, Gorée, Dakar, Rufisque, and Saint Louis experienced and reacted to French colonialism and how gendered readings of colonization decolonization and social movements cast new light on the history of French colonization and of black France In addition to delineating the powerful contributions of black French women in the struggle for equality contributors also look at the experiences of African American women in Paris and in so doing integrate into colonial and postcolonial conversations the strategies black women have engaged in negotiating gender and race relations la fran aise Drawing on research by scholars from different disciplinary backgrounds and countries this collection offers a fresh multidimensional perspective on race class and gender relations in France and its former colonies exploring how black women have negotiated the boundaries of patriarchy and racism from their emancipation from slavery to the second decade of the twenty first century
