The New International Economic Order Paul Stubbs, 2025-09-05 The New International Economic Order NIEO was an attempt underpinned by the agency of the Global South to articulate global economic and social rights consequent upon political rights gained through processes of decolonisation The New International Economic Order Lives and Afterlives situates the NIEO within the interregnum of the 1970s addressing its core features intellectual antecedents contradictions absences and afterlives Particular attention is paid to the role of the Non Aligned Movement NAM alongside the G 77 and UNCTAD The book traces the orchestrated United States opposition to the NIEO and the growth of neoliberalism at the end of the 1970s before discussing some of the NIEO s many afterlives It argues that analysing translating and adapting the NIEO is important for any re envisioning of emancipatory global economic political and social relations today Using a mixture of documentary and archive material The New International Economic Order will be of interest to students and researchers in diplomatic history international relations development studies and sociology It brings together a large number of themes that are not usually considered together in the existing literature combining theory and empirics in innovative ways

International and Development Communication Bella Mody, 2003-04-29 Mody ties together much of the book with the currently compelling concept of globalization For scholars it provides a wealth of current references and sketches a historical overview that is mostly absent in other volumes that attempt a summary like this one COMMUNICATION RESEARCH TRENDS International and Development Communication A 21st Century Perspective examines the exciting field of international and development communication and illustrates how this field of study is composed and how it has grown. Derived from the successful Handbook of International and Intercultural Communication Second Edition, this book opens with an updated and expanded introduction by Bella Mody showcasing the effects of globalization and contains those chapters from the Handbook that deal with international and development communication. International and Development Communication provides a historical perspective and a contemporary analysis of the field of international communication and its application to development communication. The book examines how communication media and telecommunications are considered central to globalization and to national development and discusses globalization in history, the role of media, changes in structural biases of media and telecommunication institutions, national forces of capitalism and biases in international and development communication messages. It provides a historical perspective and a contemporary analysis of the field of international communication and its application to development communication. The book examines how communication media and telecommunications are considered central to globalization and to national development and discusses globalization in history, the role of media, changes in structural biases of media and telecommunication institutions, national forces of capitalism and biases in international and development communication messages. The book is divided into two parts: Part One revolves around media institutions and the conditions under which they have been used by the state and private capital; Part Two covers international communication and presents the thinking of several well-known authors from areas such as South Asia, East Asia, Europe, and North America. Part Two focuses on development communication applications by various active researchers and professors drawn from Latin America, South Asia, and North America. With contributions from experts in the field, each part of the book begins with a chapter on theories and closes with one on issues. Chapters within each part examine the distinct and broadly recognized topics of research within each area, such as media corporations in the age of globalization, transnational advertising, the global/local dialectic, and polysemic effects. Development communication campaigns, communication technology, and development and international development communication.

Communication and Power in the Global Era Marwan M. Kraidy, 2012-11-27. This book revisits how we think about communication and power in the global era. It takes stock of the last fifty years of scholarship, maps key patterns and concepts, and sets an agenda for theory and research. The book addresses such questions as: How are national and cultural identities re-fashioned and expressed in the global era? How can we best understand the emergence of multiple and sometimes antagonistic modernities worldwide? How are political struggles fought and communicated on the local/national/global nexus? How do we integrate emerging media environments in global communication studies? Bringing together essays from a range of internationally renowned scholars, this book will be useful to undergraduate and postgraduate students on Media and Communication Studies courses, particularly those studying globalisation and global media.

Sabry Paddy Scannell Piotr M Szipunar Guobin Yang Barbie Zelizer Global Media, Culture, and Identity Rohit Chopra, Radhika Gajjala, 2012-10-02 This edited volume examines the ways that global media shapes relations between place culture and identity Through the included essays Chopra and Gajjala offer a mix of theoretical reflections and empirical case studies that will help readers understand how the media can shape cultural identities and conversely how cultural formations can influence the political economy of global media The interdisciplinary international scholars gathered here push the discussion of what it means to do global media studies beyond uncritical celebrations of the global media technologies or globalization as well as beyond perspectives that are a priori dismissive of the possibilities of global media Some of the key questions and themes that the international contributors explore within the text include Is the global audience of global television the same as the global audience of the internet Can we conceptualize the global culture media identity dynamic beyond the discourse of postcolonialism How does the globalization of media affect feelings of nationalism How is the growth of a consumer global middle class spread and resisted through media Global Media Identity and Culture takes a comparative media approach to addressing these and other issues across media forms including print television film and new media

Cyberimperialism? Bosah Ebo, 2000-11-30 This collection of essays addresses whether all nations will actively participate in building the information superhighway or whether the Internet will reflect global technological inequalities The writings are grouped in four major sections which examine theoretical issues on cyberglobalization politics in the electronic global village global economic issues in cyberspace and national identities and grassroots movements in cyberspace Contributing scholars represent a wide spectrum of disciplines from political science economics and communications to sociology anthropology and philosophy A number of methodological and theoretical perspectives direct the writings Collectively the essays point toward an emerging technology that exhibits innate qualities characteristic of the classic notion of cultural imperialism This edited collection with its timely approach to the implications of the Internet for global relations will appeal to communication sociology and political science scholars The interdisciplinary approach will also attract students and educators from such fields as anthropology philosophy and economics To aid in further research select bibliographies follow each essay Hybridity, OR the Cultural Logic of Globalization Kraidy, 2007-09 Handbook of International and Intercultural Communication William B. Gudykunst, Bella Mody, 2002 This handbook summarises the state of the art in international cultural and developmental communication and sets the agenda for future research The New Communications Landscape Anura Goonasekera, Jan Servaes, Georgette Wang, 2003-09-02 The innovative and rapid growth of communication satellites and computer mediated technologies in the late 1980s and early 1990s combined with the deregulation of national broadcasting led many media commentators to assume that the age of national media had been lost But what has become clear is that whilst there has been a limited growth in global media there has been an emergence of a strong localised television and communications industry Mapping the world media market and using examples of programming from countries as diverse as Thailand Hong Kong Brazil Taiwan Spain and Britain this volume explores theories of media globalization examines the local culture of television programming and analyses the blurring of distinctions between the global and the local
