Beyond Despair Three Lectures And A Conversation With Philip Roth:

Beyond Despair Aharon Appelfeld, 1994 The inability to express the horrors of the Holocaust combined with guilt feelings of the survivors led to silence Appelfeld explores the role of art in redeeming pain from darkness and the conflicting desires to speak out and to keep silent He forcefully argues that the Jewish people need a spiritual vision In his conversation with Philip Roth Appelfeld sheds light on his work and talks with candor about his life influences and concerns The Cambridge Companion to Philip Roth Timothy Parrish, 2007-01-04 From the moment that his debut book Goodbye Columbus 1959 won him the National Book Award Philip Roth has been among the most influential and controversial writers of our age Now the author of more than twenty novels numerous stories two memoirs and two books of literary criticism Roth has used his writing to continually reinvent himself and in doing so to remake the American literary landscape This Companion provides the most comprehensive introduction to his works and thought in a collection of newly commissioned essays from distinguished scholars Beginning with the urgency of Roth's early fiction and extending to the vitality of his most recent novels these essays trace Roth's artistic engagement with questions about ethnic identity postmodernism Israel the Holocaust sexuality and the human psyche itself With its chronology and guide to further reading this Companion will be essential for new and returning Roth readers students and scholars Varieties of Understanding Stephen R.

Grimm, 2019-08-22 What does it mean to understand something What is the essence of understanding when compared across multiple domains Varieties of Understanding offers new and original work on the nature of understanding raising questions about what understanding looks like from different perspectives and exploring how ordinary people use the notion of understanding According to a long historical tradition understanding comes in different varieties In particular it is said that understanding people has a different epistemic profile than understanding the natural world that it calls on different cognitive resources and brings to bear distinctive normative considerations Thus in order to understand people we might need to appreciate or in some way sympathetically reconstruct the reasons that led a person to act in a certain way By comparison when it comes to understanding natural events like earthquakes or eclipses no appreciation of reasons or acts of sympathetic reconstruction is arguably needed mainly because there are no reasons on the scene to even be appreciated and no perspectives to be sympathetically pieced together This volume brings together some of the world's leading philosophers psychologists and theologians in order to shed light on the various ways in which we understand the world pushing debates on this issue to new levels of sophistication and insight Communities of Memory William James Booth, 2018-07-05

Memory has fueled merciless violent strife and it has been at the core of reconciliation and reconstruction It has been used to justify great crimes and yet it is central to the pursuit of justice In these and more everyday ways we live surrounded by memory individual and social in our habits our names the places where we live street names libraries archives and our citizenship institutions and laws Still we wonder what to make of memory and its gifts though sometimes we are hardly even certain that they are gifts Of the many chambers in this vast palace I mean to ask particularly after the place of memory in politics in the identity of political communities and in their practices of doing justice from the Preface W James Booth seeks to understand the place of memory in the identity ethics and practices of justice of political communities Identity is he believes a particular kind of continuity across time one central to the possibility of agency and responsibility and memory plays a central role in grounding that continuity Memory identity takes two forms a habitlike form the deep presence of the past that is part of a life led in common and a more fragile vulnerable form in which memory struggles to preserve identity through time notably in bearing witness a form of memory work deeply bound up with the identity of political communities Booth argues that memory holds a defining place in determining how justice is administered Memory is tied to the very possibility of an ethical community one responsible for its own past able to make commitments for the future and driven to seek justice Underneath and motivating the politics of memory understood as contests over the writing of history over memorials museums and canons he writes there lies an intertwining of memory identity and justice Communities of Memory both argues for and maps out that intertwining

Women, Emancipation and the German Novel 1871-1910 Charlotte Woodford, 2017-12-02 In novels written at the end of the long nineteenth century women in Germany and Austria engaged with some of the most pressing social questions of the modern age Charlotte Woodford analyses a wide range of such works many of them largely forgotten in the context of the contemporary cultural discourses that informed their creation such as writings on pacifism and socialism prostitution birth control and sexually transmitted diseases Women s experience of contemporary medicine as patients and doctors is a fascinating theme treated here by several authors Through a close reading of works by Marie von Ebner Eschenbach Minna Kautsky Gabriele Reuter Helene Bohlau Ilse Frapan Hedwig Dohm Lou Andreas Salome and others this study shows how writers determination to validate women s experience of the problems of modernity informed the aesthetic development of the novel by women

Aharon Appelfeld's Fiction Emily Miller Budick, 2005-01-17 How can a fictional text adequately or meaningfully represent the events of the Holocaust Drawing on philosopher Stanley Cavell s ideas about acknowledgment as a respectful attentiveness to the world Emily Miller Budick develops a penetrating philosophical analysis of major works by internationally prominent Israeli writer Aharon Appelfeld Through sensitive discussions of the novels Badenheim 1939 The Iron Tracks The Age of Wonders and Tzili and the autobiographical work The Story of My Life Budick reveals the compelling art with which Appelfeld renders the sights sensations and experiences of European Jewish life preceding during and after the Second World War She argues that it is through acknowledging the incompleteness of our knowledge and understanding of the catastrophe that Appelfeld s fiction produces not only its stunning aesthetic power but its affirmation and faith in both the human and the divine This beautifully written book provides a moving introduction to the work of an important and powerful writer and an enlightening meditation on how fictional texts deepen our understanding of historical events Jewish Literature and Culture Alvin H Rosenfeld editor

Only the Nails Remain Christopher Merrill, 2001-10-23 Only the Nails Remain Scenes from the Balkan Wars is a chronicle of poet and critic Christopher Merrill's ten war time journeys to the Balkans from the years 1992 through 1996. At once a travelogue, a book of war reportage and a biography of the imagination under siege, this beautifully written and personal narrative takes the reader along on the author's journeys to all the provinces and republics of the former Yugoslavia: Bosnia Herzegovina, Croatia, Kosovo, Macedonia, Montenegro, Serbia, Slovenia, and Vojvodina, as well as to Albania, Austria, Bulgaria, Greece, Hungary, Italy, and Turkey. His journeys provide the narrative structure for an exploration of the roles and responsibility of intellectuals caught up in a decisive historical moment, many of whom either helped to incite the war or else bore eloquent witness to its carnage. What separates this book, the first non-native literary work on the conflict, from other collections of reportage, political analysis, and polemic is its concern for capturing the texture of particular places in the midst of dramatic change: the sounds and sights and smells, the stories and observations of victim and perpetrator alike, the culture of war. Here is a literary meditation on war, a fascinating portrait of the poetry, politics, and the people of the Balkans that will provide insight into the past, present, and future of those war-torn lands. Hear an interview with the author on NPR's Weekend All Things Considered, February 20th. Balkan Poets Concentrationary Memories Griselda Pollock, Max

Silverman, 2015-08-25 In 1945, French political prisoners returning from the concentration camps of Germany coined the phrase "the concentrationary universe" to describe the camps as a terrible political experiment in the destruction of the human. This book shows how the unacknowledged legacy of a totalitarian mentality has seeped into the deepest recesses of everyday popular culture. It asks if the concentrationary now infests our cultural imaginary, normalizing what was once considered horrific and exceptional by transforming it into entertainment, violations of human life. After Such Knowledge Eva Hoffman, 2011-08-02 As the Holocaust recedes in time, the guardianship of its legacy is being passed on from its survivors and witnesses to the next generation. How should they in turn convey its knowledge to others? What are the effects of a traumatic past on its inheritors? And what are the second generation's responsibilities to its received memories? In this meditation on the long aftermath of atrocity, Eva Hoffman, a child of Polish Jews who survived the Holocaust with the help of neighbors but whose entire families perished, probes these questions through personal reflections and through broader explorations of the historical, psychological, and moral implications of the second generation experience. She examines the subterranean processes through which private memories of suffering are transmitted and the more willful stratagems of collective memory. She traces the second generation's trajectory from childhood intimations of horror through its struggles between allegiance and autonomy and its complex transactions with children of perpetrators. As she guides us through the poignant juncture at which living memory must be relinquished, she asks what insights can be carried from the past to the newly problematic present and urges us to transform potent family stories into a fully informed understanding of a forbidding history.
