Reducing Passenger Rail Delays by Better Management of Incidents Great Britain. Parliament. House of Commons. Committee of Public Accounts, 2008 This is the 53rd report from the Committee of Public Accounts HCP 655 session 2007 08 ISBN 9780215524973 and examines how the rail industry led by the Department for Transport and Network Rail manages incidents on the rail network and how passengers are treated when delays occur The Committee has set out a number of conclusions and recommendations including that Network Rail receives only half of its funding from the taxpayer but as a private sector company it is not directly accountable to Parliament the Committee states the Department should strengthen the governance and accountability arrangements that the Office of Rail Regulation should review and revise targets where appropriate to take account of changing conditions and challenges the Committee states that the Department needs to play a more active role in bringing together the rail industry emergency services and other stakeholders to improve incident management and further that the Office of Rail Regulation should make sure mechanisms are in place so that the emergency services know who to contact during rail incidents that passengers are not receiving the information they need during delays and are not always told how to claim compensation for delays During the 2006 07 period over 1 2 billion passenger journeys were made in Great Britain on services that arrived on time almost nine times out of ten The Department provided 3 4 billion to Network Rail and 1 7 billion to the train operating companies whilst passengers paid some 5 1 billion in fares with the NAO estimating that delays cost passengers 1 billion in terms of lost time This report follows on from a National Audit Office report HCP 308 session 2007 08 ISBN 9780102953053
