

Beginning Bridge: Basics for Responder

When your partner opens one of a suit, all you know about his hand is his minimum length in that suit (3+ cards for a 1C or 1D opening; 5+ cards for a 1H or 1S opening) and his minimum point count (at least 12-13). You don't yet know if he has a balanced or an unbalanced hand, extra length in his suit, a second suit or extra points. Opener needs to hear from you before he can tell you more about his hand.

Partner needed at least 12-13 points to start the bidding, but you need only 6 points to bid back to him. Your response tells him the two of you have at least half the total strength (your 6+ and partner's 13+ is about half of the 40 points in the deck).

A response, even with a bare 6 points keeps the auction open and allows partner to bid again. This can help you:

- (1) Find the best trump suit. It may not be the suit partner bid, especially if he opened 1C or 1D.
 - (2) Find the right level. If partner has a very strong hand, you may be able to make a game contract.
 - (3) Make it more difficult for the opponents to enter the auction.

Which suit?

If partner opens and the next player passes, always respond if you hold 6+ points. Here are your options:

- (1) Raise partner's suit. A bid in the same suit partner opened (1H by partner - 2H by you) is called a raise. It says you have enough length in partner's suit to guarantee a combined fit of 8+ cards. Your raise also shows your point - count — the higher the level of your raise, the stronger your hand.
 - If partner opens 1H or 1S, always raise his suit if you have 3+-card support. Showing a fit for partner's major suit is more important than bidding any other suit.
 - If partner opens 1C or 1D, he may hold a 3-card suit, so you need 5-card length to raise. Raise opener's minor only if you have no 4-card major.
- (2) Bid notrump. A notrump bid tells partner that you don't have support for his suit and that you have no 4+-card major you can bid at the one-level. Notrump bids also show points — the higher the level of your bid, the stronger your hand.
- (3) Bid a new suit at the one-level. A one-level response in a new suit (1C by partner - 1D, 1H or 1S by you) shows 4+ cards in your suit and 6+ points. Unlike a raise or notrump bid, your bid of a new suit does not show an exact point range. Opener won't know how strong you are, so he must bid again.
