Bose,2010-10-01 As multilateral agencies social movements and state authorities worldwide struggle to cope with the effects of large scale development projects such as dam building mining oil extraction forest plantations and nature conservation the problem of displacement remains unresolved The crisis of development refugees those forced to relocate not by wars or political conflicts but rather because of development policies programs and projects is becoming increasingly prevalent across the globe While existing studies on development induced displacement have focused on issues such as resettlement and compensation for those displaced this volume seeks to address displacement as a broad and multilayered phenomenon A series of illustrative case studies drawn from around the globe provide causal accounts of why and how displacement occurs what its effects on communities ecosystems and economies look like and the normative or ethical positions held by key actors involved Contributors offer economic political and cultural analyses as well as extensive ethnographic field research to present a picture of displacement that illustrates the depth and the breadth of the issue Thailand Maurizio Peleggi,2007-05-30 Tourist brochures and travel guides depict Thailand as an exotic country with a rich cultural heritage strong religious traditions and a popular monarchy Historians also contribute to Thailand s international allure with chronicles of its unique historical and cultural continuity in comparison to the other southeast Asian countries whose histories are stained by colonialism and nationalist struggles for independence Thailand challenges these stereotypes with a reinterpretation as well as an introduction to the emergence of Thailand as a nation state The book argues that the development of Thai nationhood was a long term process shaped by interactions with the outside world its pursuit of civilization and more recently globalization Maurizio Peleggi s original account investigates among other issues the evolution of the geographical and linguistic landscapes changes in class and gender relations the role of institutions and ideologies modern cultural expressions social memory and the conception of the Thai national self as contrasted against the racial and cultural Others of Burmese Chinese and Westerners Thailand is a concise and compelling introduction to the complexities that lie behind Thailand's exotic facade Bangkok Marc Askew, 2004-08-02 Bangkok is one of Asia's most interesting varied controversial and challenging cities It is a city of contradictions both in its present and past This unique book examines the development of the city from its earliest days as the seat of the Thai monarchy to its current position as an infamous contemporary metropolis Adopting insights from anthropology urban studies and human geography this is a powerful account of the city and its dynamic spaces Marc Askew examines the city's variety from the inner city slums to the rural urban fringe and gives us a keen insight into the daily life of the city's inhabitants be they middle class suburbanites or sex workers Evictions - 7010 International Institute for Environment & Development, 1994

Living in Hope John Feffer, 2002-06 This work tells the story the response of ordinary people around the world to the irreversible juggernaut of the global economy Readers are shown attempts to create alternatives by those for whom globalization has no need The Law of Non-navigational Uses of International Watercourses Nahid Islam, 2010-01-01 Presentation de l'auteur Despite Asia's large share of global water resources and the importance of its water for sustaining one of the largest agrarian populations in the world Asia's trans boundary water resource management regimes are poorly developed There are only two working international regimes in South and South east Asia the Mekong and the Indus regimes The remaining international watercourses in Asia are used by riparian countries in a self interested manner without much consideration for the interests of other states or for the environment These national interests do not often represent the interests and needs of the local people This book is divided into three Parts Part I discusses the different contexts of law making in the industrialized west and in agrarian societies in Asia as well as the changing context of law making following the emergence of the concept of sustainable development Part II discusses the regime of international watercourses Part III of the book presents two case studies in Asia the Mekong and the Ganges The main argument is that in the absence of public participation in decision making and resource management the basin states revert to using the watercourses according to the principles of the classical regime The result so far has been unsustainable development environmental degradation and growing poverty of local user communities
