

The background of the image is a highly ornate, classical-style wall. It features a central rectangular panel with a painting of a religious scene, possibly the Virgin Mary with the Christ Child, surrounded by other figures. This central panel is framed by a wide, decorative border of gold and blue. The entire wall is covered in intricate, repeating patterns of gold leaf and blue, creating a rich, textured appearance. On the left side of the image, there is a portrait of Johann Sebastian Bach, an older man with a white wig, wearing a dark coat. On the right side, there is a portrait of Antonio Vivaldi, a younger man with long, curly white hair, wearing a red garment. The title 'Bach & Vivaldi' is superimposed over the central panel in a large, white, serif font with a red outline.

Ornamentation in Baroque and Post-baroque Music Frederick Neumann, 1983-12-21 Ornaments play an enormous role in the music of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries and ambiguities in their notation as well as their frequent omission in the score have left doubt as to how composers intended them to be interpreted Frederick Neumann himself a violinist and conductor questions the validity of the rigid principles applied to their performance In this controversial work available for the first time in paperback he argues that strict constraints are inconsistent with the freedom enjoyed by musicians of the period The author takes an entirely new look at ornamentation and particularly that of J S Bach He draws on extensive research in England France Germany Italy and the United States to show that prevailing interpretations are based on inadequate evidence These restrictive interpretations have been far reaching in their effect on style By questioning them this work continues to stimulate a reorientation in our understanding of Baroque and post Baroque music
