

CREETOWN (SPITTAL LENNIES): 'Crab' 2-6-0 No 42919 pauses at Creetown station with a down pick-up freight on 15 July 1963. The loco is pulling forward to take water before heading for Stranraer. No 42919 was a Dumfries (68B) loco, spending many years at that shed. Michael Mensing

Nearly 30 years later, while the track, signal box and pole route have gone, the buildings still remain. The main station building is in a very poor condition, the concrete-roofed building has fared better, while the large goods shed is receiving attention to the roof. The trackbed is deep in stagnant water, making access to the up platform impossible. The picture was obtained by going as far left as possible and holding the camera high on a monopod. Some connection with the steam age is retained as the yard is used by a coal merchant.
