Amino Acid Availability and Brain Function in Health and Disease Gerald Huether, 2013-06-29 The picture on the following page is being reproduced here at the request of the participants in the Advanced Research Workshop Amino Acid Availability and Brain Function in Health and Disease I displayed this limewood carving entitled Neurochemistry during my closing remarks to this extraordinarily stimulating and productive workshop so ably organized by my collaborator Dr Gerald Huether We scientists need two sturdy legs to carry us through all the twists and turns of our academic careers We should also have as it were a reserve leg handy to help us stay upright when this career ends My third leg is wood carving The idea for Neurochemistry try came to me in the plane carrying me to the congress of the International Neurochemical Society in Jerusalem We need the hands for our meticulous experimental work and at least one ear to listen to the messages our neurons send us A few years ago it would have been premature to hold a workshop on this subject Now however the time was just right to allow an overview of the status of current research and to point out the promising new openings it has created There is no doubt that the book to be published as a result of this workshop will be for the next years at least the standard text on the subject Hearty thanks to all speakers for their brilliant contributions and to all participants for the lively uninhibited and stimulating discussion Brain Function Therapy Graham E. Cognitive-Behavioral Therapy for Smoking Cessation Kenneth A. Perkins, Cynthia A. Conklin, Michele D. Levine, 2013-01-11. Practitioners helping smokers to quit can be more effective by learning key therapeutic techniques aimed at increasing any smoker's chances of success. Cognitive Behavioral Therapy for Smoking Cessation is a valuable guidebook to an empirically based CBT approach to smoking cessation that has been shown to be effective with or without the use of medications. This approach emphasizes techniques for enhancing the smoker's motivation and confidence to quit and teaching the smoker steps for preparing to quit, coping with the difficulties that emerge after quitting, and transitioning to become a long-term nonsmoker. Cognitive Behavioral Therapy for Smoking Cessation offers the fundamental counseling strategies and interventions that have been established, researched, and refined over the past decade. This program outlines essential components that should be included in the treatment of any smoker, as well as steps to take when faced with smokers likely to have particular difficulty quitting. Unique to this volume is the inclusion of a specifically tailored CBT model designed to address weight gain concerns in the smoker. Perkins, Conklin, and Levine are leading researchers on effective smoking cessation intervention for those concerned about the potential gain in weight that accompanies quitting and offer a flexible approach that allows the practitioner to tailor interventions to each individual. An invaluable addition to any health professional's repertoire, the treatment model presented in this book provides practitioners with the tools necessary to help their clients to quit smoking.

Rehabilitation Therapeutics of the Neurological Training Wenru Zhao, 2018-12-07. This book introduces the Neurological Training and Educating Technical System (NTETS), providing readers with a useful tool for the recovery of motor function after incurring CNS lesions. NTETS is based on the essential theories of Chinese medicine: central nervous system plasticity and motor function using the six-step Chinese Daoyin technique to induce the CNS potency. This rehabilitation technique not only applies to acute stage patients who suffer from motor dysfunction caused by CNS lesions but is also used for regaining motor function in long-term patients who have not experienced any improved motor function through the common rehabilitation methods of today. This informative book on NTETS is a beneficial supplement to modern rehabilitation medicine and serves as a valuable resource for rehabilitation doctors, nurses, graduate students in this field, or employees working in neurology, neurosurgery, orthopaedics, and geriatrics departments.
