Building Types and Built Forms Philip Steadman, 2014-02-28 Building Types and Built Forms weaves two books together in alternating chapters one about the history of building types the other about their geometry The first book follows the histories of some common types of building houses hospitals schools offices and prisons Examples are drawn from the 19th and early 20th centuries in France America and Britain with the central focus on London They include the pavilion hospitals associated with the name of Florence Nightingale English Board and Modernist schools of the 1920s and 30s tall office buildings in Chicago and New York Jeremy Bentham's Panopticon penitentiary and radial prisons on the model of Cherry Hill and Pentonville The second book takes these histories and uses them to explore how the forms of these buildings are constrained by some of the basic functions of architecture to provide daylight and ventilation to the interior to provide access to all rooms or to allow occupants to see from one part of a building to another A new way of thinking about these worlds of geometrical possibility is introduced in which the forms of many buildings can be catalogued and laid out systematically in morphospaces or theoretical spaces of forms As building types change over time they come to occupy different positions within the worlds of possible forms Building Types and Built Forms is filled with over 400 illustrations many drawn especially for the book It offers a new theoretical approach combined with a series of historical accounts of building types some well known some less familiar It should appeal to academics practitioners historians and students of architecture Without and Within Mark Pimlott, 2007 Visual Culture: Spaces of visual culture Joanne Morra, Marquard Smith, 2006 These texts represent both the formation of visual culture and the ways in which it has transformed and continues to transform our understanding and experience of the world as a visual domain Encyclopedia of Twentieth Century Architecture R. Stephen Sennott, 2004 For more information including the introduction a full list of entries and contributors a generous selection of sample pages and more visit the Encyclopedia of 20th Century Architecture website Focusing on architecture from all regions of the world this three volume set profiles the twentieth century's vast chronicle of architectural achievements both within and well beyond the theoretical confines of modernism Unlike existing works this encyclopedia examines the complexities of rapidly changing global conditions that have dispersed modern architectural types movements styles and building practices across traditional geographic and cultural boundaries Shopping Environments Peter Coleman, 2007-06-07 Shopping centers have become the most common of shopping environments and have influenced the make up of cities around the world However in recent years the enclosed mall has evolved and diversified with new types of retail environments that were developed to better suit their locale and meet public expectation This design guide has over 600 illustrations that present the core values and considerations that make a successful retail center location catchment user needs as well as access and layout Covering everything from site master planning to the essentials of public facilities and the technical systems this is essential reading for architects of contemporary shopping centers A series of international examples showcasing different types of shopping environments are included to cover the wide range of designs that have occurred in recent years From the out of town mall to retail parks and mixed use town center developments the best of contemporary design is illustrated to provide both practical information and inspiration Glass Structures Jan Wurm, 2007 Flat glass opens up more possibilities for the planner than virtually any other material Because of the technological complexity of using it however no specific structural forms have been developed for glass supporting frameworks as they have been for wood concrete and steel This book is thus the first to present a coherent guide to the planning and design of glass supporting frameworks The focus is on the pressure resistant flat supporting element as a basic building block for broad supporting structures The spatial and constructive forms of multifunctional self supporting glass envelopes are vividly illustrated and systematically explained The constructions presented exhibit new aesthetic qualities based not on the dictum of dematerialization but on the poetry of gleaming and transparent planes They ring in a new chapter in the history of glass architecture
