Archaeological Survey in the Lower Mississippi Alluvial Valley, 1940-1947 Philip Phillips, James A. Ford, James B. Griffin, 2003-10-08 Documents prehistoric human occupation along the lower reaches of the Mississippi River A Dan Josselyn Memorial Publication The Lower Mississippi Survey was initiated in 1939 as a joint undertaking of three institutions the School of Geology at Louisiana State University the Museum of Anthropology at the University of Michigan and the Peabody Museum at Harvard Fieldwork began in 1940 but was halted during the war years When fieldwork resumed in 1946 James Ford had joined the American Museum of Natural History which assumed co sponsorship from LSU The purpose of the Lower Mississippi Survey LMS a term used to identify both the fieldwork and the resultant volume was to investigate the northern two thirds of the alluvial valley of the lower Mississippi River roughly from the mouth of the Ohio River to Vicksburg This area covers about 350 miles and had been long regarded as one of the principal hot spots in eastern North American archaeology Phillips Ford and Griffin surveyed over 12 000 square miles identified 382 archaeological sites and analyzed over 350 000 potsherds in order to define ceramic typologies and establish a number of cultural periods The commitment of these scholars to developing a coherent understanding of the archaeology of the area as well as their mutual respect for one another enabled the publication of what is now commonly considered the bible of southeastern archaeology Originally published in 1951 as volume 25 of the Papers of the Peabody Museum of American Archaeology and Ethnology this work has been long out of print Because Stephen Williams served for 35 years as director of the LMS at Harvard succeeding Phillips and was closely associated with the authors during their lifetimes his new introduction offers a broad overview of the work s influence and value placing it in a contemporary context

Historical Archaeology of Arkansas Carl Drexler, 2024-01-12 Arkansas s diverse geography spanning the Ozark Mountains densely forested Timberlands and Mississippi River Delta and its complex Native American and Euro American history belie the inattentive historical treatment the Natural State has thus far received by scholars Often disparaged as a cultural and intellectual backwater and indeed perhaps best known for President Bill Clinton and Wal Mart this overly simplified image of Arkansas shadows a state rich in historic significance and the archaeological record Carl G Drexler aims to correct this bias in Historical Archaeology of Arkansas In nine essays that range from Civil War sites to the Ozark Mountains to the nineteenth century Jewish community Drexler and his contributors present an Arkansas unknown to all but those dedicated individuals working to publicize the state s hidden diversity The research presented herein depicts a strong state and federal commitment to documenting Arkansas s history perhaps unmatched by any other state in America and the success of public archaeology through the efforts of the Arkansas Archaeological Survey Historical Archaeology of Arkansas not only showcases the natural beauty and rich history of Arkansas but it also serves as a primer for historical inquiry for other state and federal organizations looking to bolster their own programs Carl G Drexler is the Archeological Survey s station archeologist for southwest Arkansas and a research assistant

The Development of Southeastern Archaeology Jay K. Johnson,1993-02-28 Ten scholars whose specialties range from ethnohistory to remote sensing and lithic analysis to bioarchaeology chronicle changes in the way prehistory in the Southeast has been studied since the 19th century Each brings to the task the particular perspective of his or her own subdiscipline in this multifaceted overview of the history of archaeology in a region that has had an important but variable role in the overall development of North American archaeology Some of the specialties discussed in this book were traditionally relegated to appendixes or ignored completely in site reports more than 20 years old Today most are integral parts of such reports but this integration has been hard won Other specialties have been and will continue to be of central concern to archaeologists Each chapter details the way changes in method can be related to changes in theory by reviewing major landmarks in the literature As a consequence the reader can compare the development of each subdiscipline As the first book of this kind to deal specifically with the region it be will valuable to archaeologists everywhere The general reader will find the book of interest because the development of southeastern archaeology reflects trends in the development of social science as a whole Contributors include Jay K Johnson David S Brose Jon L Gibson Maria O Smith Patricia K Galloway Elizabeth J Reitz Kristen J Gremillion Ronald L Bishop Veletta Canouts and W Fredrick Limp Mississippi Archaeology ,2005 Archaeological Survey of the Lower Mississippi Alluvial Valley, 1940-1947 Philip Phillips,1968 The Tombigbee Watershed in Southeastern Prehistory Ned J. Jenkins,Richard A. Krause,1986 Representing the synthesis of approximately ten years of archaeological research along the central Tombigbee River this book offers new theoretical and interpretive contributions to the study of human activity in the Tombigbee River Valley from 1000 B C to A D 1450 The authors have devised a new taxonomic approach that allows them to portray cultures as they gathered momentum and peaked in their potential as social economic and political structures The data acquired for this study are from the massive cultural resource management program that accompanied the construction of the Tennessee Tombigbee Waterway
