

Origin of Arab Nationalism at The End of Ottoman Era

- ▶ In the 19th century, as the Ottoman Empire and its controlled regions experience the administrative reform program that has been started since the era of Sultan Mahmut II
- ▶ The reform which was instituted brought many Western elements and values from various aspects, especially in the promotion of the idea of the nation-state, civil liberties, laicism, and democracy
- ▶ These Western values were brought to the Ottoman social and political, social environs by Western bureaucrats, industrialists and Christian missionaries, who then established schools and academies throughout Ottoman regions
- ▶ The graduates from these schools and academies were soon influenced by the modern history of the Middle East with their Western-influenced worldview and political perspective.
- ▶ Besides the educational institution, Western values were also infiltrating the bureaucratic institutions in the Ottoman Empire. Some of the bureaucrats who work at the heart of the Ottoman Empire were sent to France and Germany to learn the administration and legal system of these two countries.
- ▶ These bureaucrats established governmental academies and schools in Turkey, such as Mekteb-i Sultani in Galatasaray
