

BLIND WAVES

In a world where hundreds of millions of people have been displaced from their homes by the drought—a drought that now is also being created by melting ice caps—Patricia Dorman is lucky. She is still an American citizen, with the right to stay on the continent, unlike so many "refugees" whose homes lie deep under the waves.

Patricia's father chose to live on the floating city of New Galveston, instead of moving inland. The family went into the underwater salvage business. Now it's Patricia's business, and her city. She's a wealthy woman, on the City Council, well known to the local INS commander and the New Galveston police.

But none of that will help her when she stumbles across a recently sunken freighter that has dozens of bodies chained up in its hold, and clear evidence that it had been fired upon by a U.S. government ship.
