Age Of The Masses Pelican S:

Respiration and metabolism of embryonic vertebrates Roger S. Seymour, 2012-12-06 The papers in this volume were presented at an international symposium held in South Australia on September 8 10 1983 The purpose of the meeting was to present the comparative physiology of gas exchange water balance and energetics of developing vertebrate embryos contributions were invited from leading research workers in an attempt to represent the forefront of investigation of all vertebrate classes and to promote a broadly comparative approach to the study of embryonic physiology These proceedings therefore reflect the current level of research activity focusing on each group of vertebrates While considerable expansion and specialization has occurred in the area of avian embryos over the last decade work on reptilian embryos is less developed and that on fish and amphibians is still in its infancy Although a great deal is known about respiration and metabolism in embryos of placental mammals the physiology associated with the curious mode of development of monotreme and marsupial embryos has not been examined until recently In this symposium the well studied vertebrate classes are represented primarily by specific research papers that document original work These are balanced by more extensive reviews of the lesser known classes Harper's Young People, 1886 Biology of Marine Birds E. A. Schreiber, Joanna

Burger, 2001-08-16 Biology of Marine Birds provides the only complete summary of information about marine birds ever published It analyzes their breeding biology ecology taxonomy evolution fossil history physiology energetics and conservation The book covers four orders of marine birds in detail and includes two summary chapters that address the biology of shorebirds and wading birds and their lives in the marine environment Summary tables give detailed information on various aspects of their life histories breeding biology physiology and energetics and demography It provides a guide to ornithologists and students for research projects Pelicans, Cormorants, and their Relatives J. Bryan

Nelson, 2006-01-26 The pelecaniformes are a large and important group of seabirds containing many spectacular species This book addresses the breeding biology of the six pelecaniform families which comprise the closely related core groups pelicans cormorants shags darters gannets boobies and their more distant relatives the frigate birds and tropic birds Many fundamental questions can be addressed through the pelecaniformes Why do they breed in colonies What are the links between their feeding methods and their reproduction What part does territorial and pairing behaviour play in their life cycles These and scores of comparable issues including those related to man are woven here into a richly interpretative text The author's approach to the subject is threefold First the pelecaniformes are placed within the framework of four discrete disciplines with chapters on evolutionary relationships comparative behaviour ecology and the birds relationship with humans Secondly each of the six families is discussed elucidating the range of taxonomy behaviour and ecology within each Finally we progress to specific level using the same structure as for the family accounts In this way each of the 60 odd species can be understood not just as discrete units but as part of their family and order The book is unique in its coverage of the entire order and in its combination of facts and interpretation Pelicans Cormorants and their Allies will enable readers not only to identify the many spectacular species which make up this large and important group of seabirds but also to understand their breeding biology

Priests, Prelates and People Nicholas Atkin, Frank Tallett, 2003-09-26

The Catholic Church has always been a major player in European and world history Whether it has enjoyed a religious dominance or existed as a minority religion Catholicism has never been diverted from political life Priests Prelates and People records the Church struggling to adapt to the new political landscape ushered in by the French Revolution and shows how the formation of nation states and identities was both helped and hindered by the Catholic establishment It portrays the Vatican increasingly out of step in the wake of world war Cold War and the massive expansion of the developing world with its problems of population growth and under development
