The Old Songs are Always New Genevieve Campbell, 2023-07-01 It's really great It's like they're all here I hear all of these voices and I sing with them you know Yikliya Eustace Tipiloura senior songman and Elder Perhaps the most defining feature of Tiwi song is the importance placed on the creative innovation of the individual singer composer Tiwi songs are fundamentally new unique and occasion specific and yet sit within a continuum of an oral artistic tradition Performed in ceremony at public events for art and for fun songs form the core of the Tiwi knowledge system and historical archive Held by song custodians and taught through sung and danced ritual generations of embodied practice are still being created and accumulated as people continue to sing In 2009 Genevieve Campbell and eleven Tiwi colleagues travelled to Canberra to reclaim over 1300 recordings of Tiwi songs made between 1912 and 1981 that are held in the archives at the Australian

Institute of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Studies AIATSIS The Old Songs are Always New explores the return home of these recordings to the Tiwi Islands and describes the musical and vocal characteristics performance context and cultural function of the twelve Tiwi song types giving an overview of the linguistic and poetic devices used by Tiwi composers For the past 16 years Campbell has been working closely with Tiwi song custodians studying contemporary Tiwi song culture in the context of the maintenance of traditions and the development of new music forms Their musical collaboration has resulted in public performances community projects and recordings featuring current senior singers and the voices of the repatriated recordings For this publication Elders have enabled the transcription of many song texts and melodies for the first time shedding light on how generations of Tiwi singers have connected the past with the present in a continuum of knowledge transmission and arts practice

Female Voices from an Ewe Dance-drumming Community in Ghana James Burns, 2017-07-05 Ewe dance drumming has been extensively studied throughout the history of ethnomusicology but up to now there has not been a single study that addresses Ewe female musicians James Burns redresses this deficiency through a detailed ethnography of a group of female musicians from the Dzigbordi community dance drumming club from the rural town of Dzodze located in South Eastern Ghana Dzigbordi was specifically chosen because of the author's long association with the group members and because it is part of a genre known as adekede or female songs of redress where women musicians critique gender relations in society Burns uses audio and video interviews recordings of rehearsals and performances and detailed collaborative analyses of song texts dance routines and performance practice to address important methodological shifts in ethnomusicology that outline a more humanistic perspective of music cultures This perspective encompasses the inter linkages between history social processes and individual creative artists The voices of Dzigbordi women provide us not only with a more complete picture of Ewe music making they further allow us to better understand the relationship between culture social life and individual creativity The book will therefore appeal to those interested in African Studies Gender Studies and Oral Literature as well as ethnomusicology Includes documentary on the downloadable resources
