ENG 107: First-Year Composition

This course is designed to help multilingual ESL students to develop sophisticated, situation-sensitive reading and writing strategies while acknowledging the unique literacies and cultural influences they bring to the classroom.

English 107 introduces students to college-level writing through the exploration of various aspects of popular cultures. Its premise is that students are in the university to understand the world around them and to become equipped to make positive change by studying and contributing to the cultures in which they are immersed. Therefore, through reading and writing, the course presents students with opportunities to examine the ways that cultures shape beliefs, values, and education. The course also requires that students practice sharing with others their ideas about the process of enculturation. English 107 encourages students to see themselves as
