A Daughter Of The Land The Bestsellers Of 1918:

A Daughter of the Land (1918), by Gene Stratton Porter (Fine Classics) Gene Stratton Porter, 2016-06-05 If you loved Gene Stratton Porter's A Girl of the Limberlost be sure to add her later novel A Daughter of the Land to your reading list. The family that serves as the focus of the novel isn't perfect but they manage to fix their foibles and come together to make something beautiful and lasting. It's an engaging read for anyone who's ever fantasized about leaving city life behind and living off the land. Gene Stratton Porter (August 17 1863–December 6 1924) was an American author, early naturalist, nature photographer, and one of the first women to form a movie studio and production company, Gene Stratton Porter Productions Inc. She wrote several best-selling novels and well-received columns in national magazines such as McCall's. Her works were translated into several languages including Braille, and Stratton Porter was estimated to have had 50 million readers around the world. She used her position and income as a well-known author to support conservation of Limberlost Swamp and other wetlands in the state of Indiana. She was born Geneva Grace Stratton in Wabash County, Indiana, near Lagro. She was the twelfth and last child born to Mary and Mark Stratton. Early on, her family shortened her name to Genevieve, and she later shortened it further to Gene. Stratton Porter's novel Laddie corresponds in many particulars with her early life, and Gene herself described this as the most autobiographical novel. For example, the narrative takes place in the first person with the story being related by the twelfth child of the Stanton family. The name of the beloved older brother, title character Laddie, is identical with Stratton Porter's own treasured brother who died in an accident when she was young. As in Stratton Porter's own family, the novelized Laddie is connected with the land and identifies with their father's vocation. Despite not finishing high school, Gene became an avid reader and lifelong scholar of ecology and wildlife.
