A Door To The Forest:

Forests for Public Health Christos Gallis, Won Sop Shin, 2020-08-10 Forests have diverse values and functions that produce not only material products but also non material services The health functions provided by forests have been used for a very long time but they have only been emphasized in many fields of society in recent years The rapid increase in urbanization and the problems of stress sedentary occupations and hazardous urban environmental conditions due to modern life may be factors that place great demand on forests health functions Scientific research has shown that there are various psychological and physiological human health benefits of exposure to forests parks and green spaces This collection of papers highlights up to date findings and evidence to reveal the beneficial effects of forests on human and public health The findings provided here can be implemented in practice and policy using forests and nature for human and public health

Experiments with Life Itself Francisco Gonzalez de Canales, 2013-01-15 Every book relating the history of modern architecture features a large number of pages dedicated to avant garde designs and the formation of the modern movement in the interwar years and a similar number devoted to reconstruction and expansion after the Second World War Meanwhile as if owing to lack of understanding or convenient silence there is void of dark years of wars exile and misfortune about which little can be said However it was in these dark times as in so many other revealing moments in the history of culture that experimental and profoundly invigorating experiences were taking place Architects and artists voluntarily or forcibly driven to the margins of social importance began to react to a culturally unsustainable situation of which we know very little even today In Experiments with Life Itself Francisco Gonzalez de Canales studies a series of unrelated cases from the late 1930s to the late 1950s that he refers to as domestic self experimentation

Trave's Venture into the Forest's Mysteries Shlok Y Mogre, Trave was a simple eighteen year old boy finishing his last year at high school with his friends Adva and Maya However neither of them knew that their history teacher Mr Simms hid some important secrets While on a school trip to the famous Krivid caves Trave gains two more classmates as friends Bexer and Nate Things quickly go wrong when Trave discovers a bizarre death near the caves and the entire class is rushed home Over the next few days these deaths begin to plague the entire city sending it into a lockdown However it also personally attacks one of the five friends With no answers from anyone and nowhere else to go Trave and his friends come together and decide to take matters into their own hands They begin with whatever trails they find which ultimately leads them to retrace Mr Simms s steps into a mysterious forest that just might give them all their answers and raise more questions

Perrow's work in storymaking. It is richly illustrated with lively anecdotes drawn from parents and teachers who have discovered how the power of story can help resolve a range of common childhood behaviours and situations such as separation anxiety, bullying, sibling rivalry, nightmares and grieving. Pulp and Paper Magazine of Canada, 1926

The Aerie of a Pirate Prince C. Litka, 2022-09-29. It is always the captain's fault. So when a shipping container is offloaded to the wrong lighter, hijacked by the local crime syndicate, Captain Sing of the Rendezvous Moon knew she'd be blamed even though they had followed all the proper procedures. She had no intention of being blamed. She intended to track down the hijacked container. Red Tew, her chief engineer, volunteered to accompany her as muscle and invited Rafe d Mere to tag along as well since he was an old hand at dealing with the pirate princes of the Alatzian System. Because he was an old hand in dealing with the pirate princes of the Alantzia, Rafe had no desire to have anything to do with pirate princes. But what could he say but I suppose so when invited along. Captain Sing, Tew d Mere and his companion the crow Kee head down to Teire to locate the cargo container before its contents can be divided up and sent on the lawless drifts. There they are joined by an equally determined Lasha Nin, the office manager of the actual owner of the cargo. Together they trace the cargo through the busy space port of Teire much to the annoyance of the pirate prince behind the theft. And so before he knows it, d Mere is once again looking down the barrel of a pirate prince's darter. Pirate princes play for keeps. The Aerie of a Pirate Prince is a 40,600 word long story, a long novella or a short novel. C. Litka writes old-fashioned stories with modern sensibilities, humor and romance. He spins tales of adventure, mystery and travel set in richly imagined worlds with casts of colorful, fully realized characters. If you seek to escape your everyday life, you will not find better company nor more wonderful worlds to travel and explore than in the stories of C. Litka.
