Literature for Young Adults Joan L. Knickerbocker, 2017-03-15 Young adults are actively looking for anything that connects them with the changes happening in their lives and the books discussed throughout Literature for Young Adults have the potential to make that connection and motivate them to read It explores a great variety of works genres and formats but it places special emphasis on contemporary works whose nontraditional themes protagonists and literary conventions make them well suited to young adult readers It also looks at the ways in which contemporary readers access and share the works they're reading and it shows teachers ways to incorporate nontraditional ways of accessing and sharing books throughout their literature programs In addition to traditional genre chapters Literature for Young Adults includes chapters on literary nonfiction poetry short stories and drama cover art picture books illustrated literature and graphic novels and film It recognizes that while films can be used to complement print literature they are also a literacy format in their own right and one that young adults are particularly familiar and comfortable with The book's discussion of literary language including traditional elements as well as metafictional terms enables readers to share in a literary conversation with their students and others when communicating about books It will help readers teach young adults the language they need to articulate their responses to the books they are reading

Music and History Stanley C. Pelkey, 2005 This book begins with a simple question Why haven't historians and musicologists been talking to one another Historians frequently look to all aspects of human activity including music in order to better understand the past Musicologists inquire into the social cultural and historical contexts of musical works and musical practices to develop theories about the meanings of compositions and the significance of musical creation Both disciplines examine how people represent their experiences This collection of original essays the first of its kind argues that the conversation between scholars in the two fields can become richer and more mutually informing The volume features an eloquent personal essay by historian Lawrence W. Levine whose work has inspired a whole generation of scholars working on African American music in American history The first six essays address widely different aspects of musical culture and history ranging from women and popular song during the French Revolution to nineteenth century music publishing in Philadelphia Pennsylvania Two additional essays by scholars outside of musicology and history represent a new kind of disciplinary bridging by using the methods of cultural studies to look at cross dressing in nineteenth and early twentieth century opera and blues responses to lynching in the New South The last four essays offer models for collaborative multidisciplinary research with a special emphasis on popular music Jeffrey H. Jackson Memphis Tennessee is assistant professor of history at Rhodes College He is the author of Making Jazz French Music and Modern Life in Interwar Paris Stanley C. Pelkey Portage Michigan is assistant professor of music at Western Michigan University He is a member of the College Music Society and his work has appeared in music-related periodicals
