CREATION: RECONCILING SCIENCE WITH SCRIPTURE Ismail, 2025-09-02 This book sets out to explore a profound and timely connection between intelligent design and Quranic creationism In recent years scientific discoveries in fields like cosmology biology and information theory have increasingly challenged the materialistic view that life and the universe arose by blind chance and undirected processes Instead these discoveries point toward order purpose and design features that suggest the involvement of a higher intelligence At the same time the Quran offers a view of creation that is purposeful structured and deeply compatible with the core ideas behind intelligent design This book does not aim to promote religion through faith alone nor does it abandon science for scripture Rather it builds a thoughtful and reasoned bridge between what modern science is uncovering and what the Quran has long proclaimed that life and the universe are the result of deliberate creation Through this exploration we invite both believers and skeptics to reconsider the assumptions of materialism and to see how intelligence purpose and design provide a richer and more coherent explanation of reality The Creative Path:
