Agency And Self Awareness Issues In Philosophy And Psychology:

Agency and Self-awareness Johannes Roessler, Naomi Eilan, 2003 There has been much psychological and neurological work purporting to show that consciousness and self awareness play no role in causing actions The essays in this volume subject the assumptions that motivate such claims to sustained interdisciplinary scrutiny

Neuropsychology of the Sense of Agency Michela Balconi, 2010-09-08 Not nothing without you but not the same Erich Fried 1979 How do I know that I am the person who is moving The neuroscience of action has identified specific cognitive processes that allow the organism to refer the cause or origin of an action to its agent This sense of agency has been defined as the sense that I am the one who is causing or generating an action or a certain thought in my stream of consciousness As such one can distinguish actions that are self generated from those generated by others giving rise to the experience of a self other distinction in the domain of action A tentative list of the features distinguishing the concept of agency includes awareness of a goal of an intention to act and of initiation of action awareness of movements a sense of activity of mental effort and of control and the concept of authorship However it remains unclear how these various aspects of action and agency are related to what extent they are dissociable and whether some are more basic than others Their sources remain to be specified and their relationship to action specification and action control mechanism is as yet unknown
