Agglomeration, Growth, and Adjustment Thiess Buttner, 2014-09-01 Growth and Adjustment in National Agricultures James P. O'Hagan, 1978-06-17 Open Regional Labour Market and Socio-Economic Development. Studies on Adjustment and Spatial Interaction Simonetta Longhi, 2005 Urban Growth and Innovation Frank G. van Oort, 2017-11-22 Knowledge externalities i.e. intellectual gains made by exchange of information for which no direct compensation is given to the producer of the knowledge result in higher economic growth rates across urban areas as well as higher degrees of innovation intensity in those locations where economic activity is dense By combining theories and methodologies on localised growth and innovation density from the fields of geography and economics he puts forward an innovative spatial econometric model which contributes to a clearer understanding of actual processes of growth and innovation and their linkages to industry and spatially determined agglomeration factors In doing so the book acknowledges the increasing importance of geographical composition and distance for the transmission of knowledge and skills in a society in which information becomes easier to access Connecting Cities with Macroeconomic Concerns Mila Freire, Mario Polèse, Pamela Echeverria, 2003-01-01 Current economic thinking argues that the ability of cities to create wealth depends on agglomeration economies relating to the geographic concentration of industries and people which interact to create enterprise employment and growth This book finds that the quality of local services significantly influences the productivity and economic development of a city and the ability of firms to contribute to wealth The study is based on surveys conducted in five cities Belo Horizonte in Brazil Montreal in Canada Puebla in Mexico San Jos in Costa Rica and San Salvador in El Salvador Economics of Agglomeration Masahisa Fujita, Jacques-Francois Thisse, 2002-05-02 This book provides the first unifying treatment of the range of economic reasons for the clustering of firms and households Its goal is to explain further the trade off between various forms of increasing returns and different types of mobility costs Although referring to agglomeration as a generic term is convenient it should be noted that the concept of economic agglomeration refers to distinct real world situations The main focus of the treatment is on cities but it also explores the formation of agglomerations such as commercial districts within cities industrial clusters at the regional level and the existence of imbalance between regions The book is rooted within the realm of modern economics and borrows concepts from geography and regional science which makes it accessible to a broad audience formed by economists geographers regional planners and other scientists It may be used in coursework for graduate students and upper level undergraduates Technological Change and Regional Development in Europe Ludwig Schätzl, Javier Revilla Diez, 2012-12-06 This book presents the findings of the extensive research programme funded by the Deutsche Forschungsgemeinschaft German Research Council and entitled Technological Change and Regional Development in Europe The goal of this programme was to carry out research by means of empirical surveys into the relationship between technological change and regional development Over a period of six years

a total of 50 research projects have been undertaken in three phases each lasting two years This research programme has succeeded in actively involving leading German regional scientists from many universities as well as non university research institutions In addition numerous research projects were carried out in close co operation with internationally renowned partners We should like to express our gratitude for the support provided by the Deutsche Forschungsgemeinschaft Without their financial backing of the research programme it would not have been possible to undertake such an ambitious project Thanks also go to the contributors of this volume for their willingness to participate in our joint project We wish in addition to acknowledge the contribution of Prof Dr Philip Cooke whose refereeing of the chapters has enhanced the quality of the work presented here Finally our thanks go to Angela Spence for her expert editorial assistance linguistic editing and the preparation of the Index and also Franco Vaio for taking care of the technical aspects and production of the final copy Their combined efforts have been crucial for successfully bringing together contributions from so many different authors in a single volume

Agglomeration, Growth, and Adjustment Thiess Büttner, 2013-11-11 It is dealt with disparities in employment growth unemployment and wages between regional labor markets in Germany First endogenous formation and growth of industry locations due to agglomeration economies is established as a basic source of disparity in employment Then spatial frictions and local wage inflexibility due to central wage bargaining are detected as causes of unemployment disparities Throughout the book theoretical analysis is combined with rigorous empirical testing using a large set of regional data at district level In order to gain and robustify empirical results recent methods in panel econometrics and spatial data analysis are employed An overview on the extent of key regional labor market disparities in Germany is given The book enables to assess our current understanding of the role of locational issues in causing those disparities and thus to understand the basic justification of regional policy

Cities And Structural Adjustment Nigel Harris, Ida Fabricius, 2005-08-04 This work addresses the challenge faced in the management of major cities throughout the world as they adjust to economic reform and in particular to becoming more open to the processes operating in worldwide markets Such processes have already had some dramatic effects on large cities in developed and developing countries the rapid decline in manufacturing in older industrial cities and the emergence of the servicing city are but two of the more striking outcomes Based on substantial case studies of cities in the developed and the developing world Sheffield Barcelona Lille Mexico City Monterrey Santiago de Chile Bogota Kingston Jamaica and Johannesburg themes are drawn out extending from structural economic change to policy reactions new city initiatives management planning and finance
