Good Intentions Are Not Enough: Why We Fail At Helping Others Robin Boon Peng Low, 2016-10-18 Disaster strikes transforming cities and towns into graveyards and wastelands in a matter of minutes But help is on its way news channels and social media relay the information to all corners of the globe in real time mobilising hundreds of people and organisations to aid Yet with standard relief packages regardless of the location and a lack of effort taken to match volunteers skills with tasks just how effective are we at helping others Many people want to do good but they like to do it at their convenience These attempts at helping often fail and the blame invariably falls on the disaster victims rather than looking at the suitability of aid provided Such help offered without a thorough understanding of the context or the impact of actions can create situations that leave the victims worse off than before So how can we create real sustainable impact Most communities have a lot of unused human capacity When offering help many aid providers fail to engage the local communities thus excluding a critical group of people with the knowledge of local ways and needs This book elaborates on a simple principle essential to effective aid Never Help Engage Enable Empower and Connect It is important that we fully understand the problem before we try to solve it and who better to help us with solutions than the local community

New Perspectives on Consumer Culture Theory and Research Renáta Sedláková,Pavel Zahrádka,2013-02-21 In the post socialist countries the subject of consumption has not received sufficient attention from the perspective of Consumer Culture Theory The opinion has long prevailed among the majority of social scientists from this region that consumer society and consumptive behaviour is a socially destructive phenomenon and one of the main causes of problems in contemporary society This impression has prevented them from scrutinizing the symbolic dimension of consumption and led them to a critical analysis of the social causes and environmental consequences of excessive consumption The examination of symbolic aspects of consumer culture or the mutual interaction of culture and marketing communication for example have remained outside the realm of academic interest The absence of comprehensive academic interest in the topic of consumer culture does not however mean that consumer culture is not a subject of research Such research instead takes place outside of the sphere of the university in the commercial sector and is primarily focused on issues of how to successfully sell products and services Due to competitive concerns commercial research into consumer culture has led to the privatization of its results which runs contrary to the ideal of science as an open and critical project The goal of this book is to create a counterbalance to this science in the shadows and overcome the mutual distrust between the academic and commercial spheres and make possible the transfer of recent discoveries between the two parties This publication is dedicated to the exploration of three areas of consumer culture research on consumer culture and consumer behaviour in post socialist countries especially in the Czech Republic new developments in the theory of consumer culture and innovative methodological approaches to its research and finally to recent criticism of consumer culture and consumerism It emerged from the collaboration of a team of authors made up of leading European researchers in the field of consumer culture such as Kate Soper London Metropolitan University Franz Liebl Berlin University of the Arts and Rainer Gries University of Vienna as well as promising young scholars from the Czech Republic Great Britain Sweden Serbia Poland and Portugal This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of sociology cultural studies marketing and market research
