and adaptation to this issue This book was published as a special issue of Asia Pacific Journal of Tourism Research

Commercial Homes in Tourism Paul Lynch, Alison J. McIntosh, Hazel Tucker, 2009-06-02 This volume is the first to examine the commercial home from an international perspective paying attention to the frequently occurring but often neglected forms of commercial accommodation including farmstays historic houses and self catering accommodation Conceptually it helps to explain a range of behaviours and practices for example the importance of setting and the nature of the host guest exchange The idea of home provides a conceptual bridge to related themes for example identity gender emotional management and cultural mobilities whose investigation in a commercial home context offers fascinating insights into hospitality tourism and society This book is structured around three themes The first is dimensions of the commercial home and includes discussion of issues pertaining to forms and characteristics and female entrepreneurship The second theme considers the commercial home as an investigative lens to examine wider issues of society hospitality and tourism such as the commercial home as a tool for rural economic development The third theme extending the commercial home paradigm looks at new areas of development including the Malaysian Muslim home as a site for economic and political action and the use of the home in marketing regional localities Commercial Homes in Tourism is the first book to give recognition to this distinct economically important and expanding form of tourism business by bringing together recent international research on this common form of commercial tourism accommodation Given the global nature of the commercial home phenomenon and owing to the originality of its theoretical contributions and practical insights this book will be of interest across a broad range of subjects and disciplines interested in the examination of the home phenomenon including students academics and business practitioners

Food Tourism and Regional Development C. Michael Hall, Stefan Gössling, 2016-05-26 Food tourism is a topic of increasing importance for many destinations Seen as a means to potentially attract tourists and differentiate destinations and attractions by means of the association with particular products and cuisines food is also regarded as an opportunity to generate added value from tourism through local agricultural systems and supply chains and the local food system From a regional development perspective this book goes beyond culinary tourism to also look at some of the ways in which the interrelationships between food and tourism contribute to the economic environmental and social wellbeing of destinations communities and producers It examines the way in which tourism and food can mutually add value for each other from the fork to the plate and beyond Looking at products e g cheese craft beer noodles wine attractions restaurants and events and diverse regional examples e g Champagne Hong Kong Jamaica Margaret River southern Sweden and Tuscany the title highlights how clustering networking and the cultural economy of food and tourism and foodscapes adds value for regions Despite the attention given to food wine and culinary tourism no book has previously directly focused on the contribution of food and tourism in regional development This international collection has contributors and examples from almost every continent and provides a comprehensive account of the various intersections between food tourism and regional development This timely and significant volume will inform future food and tourism development as well as regional development more widely and will be valuable reading for a range of disciplines including tourism development studies food and culinary studies regional studies geography and environmental studies
