The Future of Work Inka Knappertsbusch, Gerlind Wisskirchen, 2024-12-01 This book takes readers on a journey into the future of work Following the influence of the COVID 19 pandemic working conditions have become more flexible than ever before. The freedoms granted within this framework continue to be demanded by many employees. There are also numerous companies that have had predominantly positive experiences with this change and would like to continue with it. Against this backdrop, it is to be expected that the shift away from a traditional working environment due to the four influencing factors of demographic change, skills shortages, digitalisation and artificial intelligence will accelerate in the future. This book provides an overview of the various design options for New Work and highlights their respective advantages and disadvantages. It also analyses new trends and forecasts relating to the future of work. In addition, the relevant legal framework is presented in a concise and easy to understand manner. This book provides you with the tools you need to actively shape the future of work in your company in a legally compliant manner. The editors Dr Inka Knappertsbusch is a lawyer specializing in employment law and employee data protection at the international commercial law firm CMS Germany. She advises companies primarily on restructuring and works agreements in particular on issues related to IT and new work. Her work also focuses on data protection and artificial intelligence in employment relationships. She is the co editor of the book Arbeitswelt und KI 2030. Dr Gerlind Wisskirchen is a partner and lawyer at the international commercial law firm CMS Germany and advises multinational corporations in particular on restructuring national and international employment law and compliance issues. She is also an expert on the digitalisation of the world of work with experience as a keynote speaker, author and lecturer and is the editor of the report Artificial Intelligence and Robotics and Their Impact on the Workplace for the Global Employment Institute. The translation was done with the help of artificial intelligence. A subsequent human revision was done primarily in terms of content.

Implications of Remote Work on Employee Well-being and Health Rolf Van Dick, Anja Baethge, Nina M.

Junker, 2024-12-31 The rapidly growing field of organizational psychology has over the last few years become one of the fastest growing branches of psychology. Particularly taking care of the health and well being of employees in the workplace cannot only be considered a moral imperative but has begun globally to be recognised as driving forces of socio economic growth. Employee health and well being is crucial to organizations in regards to improved productivity, employee performance, job satisfaction, staff retention, reduced absenteeism, increased job satisfaction and work commitment. Thus research relating to employee well being and health has produced some significant results and furthered our understanding of this subsection of the organizational psychology field. The evolvement of the way we work has also gained traction in the organizational psychology field in relation to remote working. Since the Covid 19 pandemic many workforces have adapted more or less permanently to this form of working. Frontiers has organized a series of Research Topics to highlight the latest advancements in research across the field of organizational psychology and the implications of remote working. This editorial initiative of particular relevance led by Professor Rolf van Dick, Specialty Chief Editor of the Employee Well being and Health section alongside Dr Anja Baethge and Dr Nina Junker is focused on the implications of remote working on employee well being and
