British War Films 1939-45:

BRITISH WAR FILMS, 1939 - 45 S. P. Mackenzie, 2001-01-01 The cinema was the most popular form of entertainment during the Second World War Film was a critically important medium for influencing opinion Films such as In Which We Serve and One of Our Aircraft is Missing shaped the British people's perceptions of the conflict British War Films 1939-45 is an account of the feature films produced during the war rather than government documentaries and official propaganda making the book an important index of British morale and values at a time of desperate national crisis A Guide to British Military History Ian F. W. Beckett, 2016-06-30 What exactly is military history Forty years ago it meant battles campaigns great commanders drums and trumpets It was largely the preserve of military professionals and was used to support national history and nationalism Now though the study of war has been transformed by the war and society approach by the examination of identity memory and gender and a less Euro centric and more global perspective Generally it is recognised that war and conflict must be integrated into the wider narrative of historical development and this is why Ian Beckett's research guide is such a useful tool for anyone working in this growing field It introduces students to all the key debates issues and resources While European and global perspectives are not neglected there is an emphasis on the British experience of war since 1500 This survey of British military history will be essential reading and reference for anyone who has a professional or amateur interest in the subject and it will be a valuable introduction for newcomers to it The Royal Marines and the War at Sea 1939-45 Martin Watts, 2018-02-15 Combining a personal narrative with tactical and technical analysis this book casts new light on the Royal Marines during the Second World War Shooting the Messenger Paul Moorcraft, 2011-10-31 Wars have dominated politics since history began In the modern era most of what the media reports on foreign conflicts comes from a small band of war correspondents As the furore over the Iraq Afghan and now the Libyan wars demonstrates Western governments and militaries often collude to keep their voters in the dark about the causes and the conduct of wars waged in their name In this entertaining and unspun account of modern war reporting the authors ask whether the media itself drives democracies to war Or does it serve to constrain evil ignorant and messianic leaders Are the heirs of William Howard Russell the first modern war reporter watchdogs or lapdogs In the age of Wikileaks and corrupt media empires what is the political impact of war correspondents Are they the heroes or harlots of their profession

Shooting the Messenger Paul L. Moorcraft, Philip M. Taylor, 2008 As the literature on military media relations grows it is informed by antagonism either from journalists who report on wars or from ex soldiers in their memoirs Academics who attempt more judicious accounts rarely have any professional military or media experience A working knowledge of the operational constraints of both professions underscores Shooting the Messenger A veteran war correspondent and think tank director Paul L Moorcraft has served in the British Ministry of Defence while historian by training Philip M Taylor is a professor of international communications who has lectured widely to the U S military and at NATO institutions Some of the topics they examine in this wide ranging history of military media relations are the interface between soldiers and civilian reporters covering conflicts the sometimes grey area between reporters right or need to know and the operational security constraints imposed by the military the military's manipulation of journalists who accept it as a trade off for safer battlefield access the resultant gap between images of war and their reality the evolving nature of media technology and the difficulties and opportunities this poses to the military journalistic performance in reporting conflict as an observer or a participant Moorcraft and Taylor provide a bridge over which each side can pass and a path to mutual understanding Britain And The War Of Words In Neutral Europe 1939-45 Robert Cole, 1990-03-01 Cinemas and cinemagoing in wartime Britain, 1939-45 Richard Farmer, 2016-06-24 In this groundbreaking book Richard Farmer provides a social and cultural history of cinemas and cinemagoing in Britain between 1939 and 1945 and explores the impact that the war had on the places in which British people watched films Britain in the Age of Total War, 1939-45 Malcolm Chandler, 2002 Endorsed by Edexcel this book covers the topic of Britain in World War II It provides background information on the topic Reconstructing the Past Sian Nicholas, Tom O'Malley, Kevin Williams, 2013-09-13 Bringing together a team of history and media researchers from across Britain and Europe this volume provides readers with a themed discussion of the range and variety of the media's engagement with history and a close study of the relationship between media history and national identity British War Films, 1939-1945 Paul Mackenzie, 2007-01-20 The cinema was the most popular form of entertainment during the Second World War Film was a critically important medium for influencing opinion Films such as In Which We Serve and One of Our Aircraft is Missing shaped the British people's perceptions of the conflict British War Films 1939-45 is an account of the feature films produced during the war rather than government documentaries and official propaganda making the book an important index of British morale and values at a time of desperate national crisis
