Women's Travel Writings in India 1777-1854 Carl Thompson, 2020-02-27 The memsahibs of the British Raj in India are well known figures today frequently depicted in fiction TV and film In recent years they have also become the focus of extensive scholarship Less familiar to both academics and the general public however are the eighteenth and early nineteenth century precursors to the memsahibs of the Victorian and Edwardian era Yet British women also visited and resided in India in this earlier period witnessing first hand the tumultuous expansionist decades in which the East India Company established British control over the subcontinent Some of these travellers produced highly regarded accounts of their experiences thereby inaugurating a rich tradition of women s travel writing about India In the process they not only reported events and developments in the subcontinent they also contributed to them helping to shape opinion and policy on issues such as colonial rule religion and social reform This new set in the Chawton House Library Women s Travel Writing series assembles seven of these accounts six by British authors Jemima Kindersley Maria Graham Eliza Fay Ann Deane Julia Maitland and Mary Sherwood and one by an American Harriet Newell Their narratives here reproduced for the first time in reset scholarly editions were published between 1777 and 1854 and recount journeys undertaken in India or periods of residence there between the 1760s and the 1830s Collectively they showcase the range of women s interests and activities in India and also the variety of narrative forms voices and personae available to them as travel writers Some stand squarely in the tradition of Enlightenment ethnography others show the growing influence of Evangelical beliefs But all disrupt any lingering stereotypes about women s passivity reticence and lack of public agency in this period when colonial women were not yet as sequestered and debarred from cross cultural contact as they would later be during the Raj Their narratives are consequently a useful resource to students and researchers across multiple fields and disciplines including women s writing travel writing colonial and postcolonial studies the history of women s educational and missionary work and Romantic era and nineteenth century literature This volume includes 2 texts Jemima Kindersley Letters from the Island of Teneriffe Brazil the Cape of Good Hope and the East Indies 1777 and Maria Graham Journal of a Residence in India 1812

‘Guilty Women’, Foreign Policy, and Appeasement in Inter-War Britain Julie V. Gottlieb, 2016-02-07 British women were deeply invested in foreign policy between the wars This study casts new light on the turn to international affairs in feminist politics the gendered representation and experience of the Munich Crisis and the profound impression made by female public opinion on PM Neville Chamberlain in his negotiations with the dictators

Ladies in the Laboratory? American and British Women in Science, 1800-1900 Mary R.S. Creese, 2000-01-01 A systematic survey and comparison of the work of 19th century American and British women in scientific research this book covers the two countries in which women of the period were most active in scientific work and examines all the fields in which they were engaged The field by field examination brings out patterns and concentrations in women's research in both countries and allows a systematic comparison of the two national groups. Through this comparison new insights are provided into how the national patterns developed and what they meant in terms of both the process of women's entry into research and the contributions they made there. Ladies in the Laboratory features a specialized bibliography of nineteenth century research journal publications by women created from the London Royal Society's Catalogue of Scientific Papers 1800-1900. In addition 23 illustrations present in condensed form information about American and British women's scientific publications throughout the nineteenth century. This well organized blend of individual life stories and quantitative information presents a great deal of new data and field by field analysis. Its broad and methodical coverage will make it a basic work for everyone interested in the story of women's participation in nineteenth century science.

The British on The Costa Del Sol Karen O'Reilly, 2013-08-06. Brits in Spain first achieved notoriety during the 1980s popularly imagined as a group made up of exiled criminals, drunken hooligans and leathery looking pensioners. Welcome to Little England. The British on the Costa Del Sol is the very first book to study this British expatriate community in any great depth and through use of interviews with members of this community paints a far more complex picture of its members. In doing so the author explodes the popularly held stereotype of Brits in Spain. What emerges is a rich account of who migrates, their reasons for migration and the day to day realities of expatriate life.

East Wind Tom Buchanan, 2012-04-19. East Wind offers the first complete archive based account of the relationship between China and the British Left from the rise of modern Chinese nationalism to the death of Mao Tse tung. Beginning with the Hands Off China movement of the mid 1920s Tom Buchanan charts the mobilisation of British opinion in defence of China against Japanese aggression 1931-1945 and the role of the British left in relations with the People's Republic of China after 1949. He shows how this relationship was placed under stress by the growing unpredictability of Communist China, above all by the Sino-Soviet dispute and the Cultural Revolution which meant that by the 1960s China was actively supported only by a dwindling group of enthusiasts. The impact of the suppression of the student protests in Tiananmen Square June 1989 is addressed as an epilogue. East Wind argues that the significance of the left's relationship with China has been unjustly overlooked. There were many occasions such as the mid 1920s, the late 1930s and the early 1950s when China demanded the full attention of the British left. It also argues that there is nothing new in the current fascination with China's emergence as an economic power. Throughout these decades the British left was aware of the immense unrealised potential of the Chinese economy and of how China's economic growth could transform the world. In addition to analysing the role of the political parties and pressure groups of the left Buchanan sheds new light on the activities of many well known figures in support of China including intellectuals such as Bertrand Russell, R. H. Tawney and Joseph Needham. Many other interesting stories emerge concerning less well known figures which show the complexity of personal links between Britain and China during the twentieth century.

Bulgarian British Review, 1929 Kinship Matters Fatemeh Ebtehaj, Bridget Lindley, Martin

Richards,2006-09-15 This book is the fifth in the Cambridge Socio Legal Group series and it concerns the evolving notions and practices of kinship in contemporary Britain and the interrelationship of kinship law and social policy Assembling contributions from scholars in a range of disciplines it examines social legal cultural and psychological questions related to kinship Rising rates of divorce and of alternative modes of partnership have raised questions about the care and well being of children while increasing longevity and mobility together with lower birth rates and changes in our economic circumstances have led to a reconsideration of duties and responsibilities towards the care of elderly people In addition globalisation trends and international flows of migrants and refugees have confronted us with alternative constructions of kinship and with the challenges of maintaining kinship ties transnationally Finally new developments in genetics research and the growing use of assisted reproductive technologies may raise questions about our notions of kinship and of kin rights and responsibilities The book explores these changes from various perspectives and draws on theoretical and empirical data to describe practices of kinship in contemporary Britain
