Britain France And Appeasement:

Britain, France and Appeasement Martin Thomas, 1996 This book investigates the course of Anglo French policy in Europe from 1936 to 1938 a critical period during which France was governed by a series of Popular Front coalition Ministries It asserts that French policy makers made a substantial impact upon the course of British foreign policy whilst breathing new life into the waning Entente Cordiale The study contends that close attention to the role of French influence is fundamental to a grasp of British appeasement and rearmament policy in the period and essential to the understanding of the Anglo French response to such problems as the Spanish Civil War the collapse of League of Nations authority and the treatment of the Soviet Union Essential reading for students of British or French Political History or the origins of World War II in Europe

Public Opinion and the End of Appeasement in Britain and France Daniel Hucker, 2011-01-01 The 1930s policy of appeasement is still fiercely debated more than 70 years after the signing of the 1938 Munich Agreement Less examined is the role of public opinion on the formation of British and French policy in the period between Munich and World War II

Britain, France, and the Appeasement Policy, 1933-1939 Dale Birdsell, 1952 Public Opinion and the End of Appeasement in Britain and France Dr Daniel Hucker, 2013-07-28 The 1930s policy of appeasement is still fiercely debated by historians critics and contemporary political commentators more than 70 years after the signing of the 1938 Munich Agreement What is less well understood however is the role of public opinion on the formation of British and French policy in the period between Munich and the outbreak of the Second World War not necessarily what public opinion was but how it was perceived to be by those in power and how this contributed to the policymaking process It therefore fills a considerable gap in an otherwise vast literature seeking to ascertain the extent to which public opinion can be said to have influenced the direction of foreign policy in a crucial juncture of British and French diplomatic history Employing an innovative and unique methodological framework the author distinguishes between two categories of representation firstly reactive representations of opinion the immediate and spontaneous reactions of the public to circumstances and events as they occur and secondly residual representations which can be defined as the remnants of previous memories and experiences the more general tendencies of opinion considered characteristic of previous years even previous decades It is argued that the French government of douard Daladier was consistently more attuned to the evolution of reactive representations than the British government of Neville Chamberlain and consequently it was the French rather than the British who first pursued a firmer policy towards the European dictatorships This comparative approach reveals a hitherto hidden facet of the diplomatic prelude to the Second World War that British policy towards France and French policy towards Britain were influenced by their respective perceptions of public opinion in the other country A sophisticated analysis of a crucial period in international history this book will be essential reading for scholars of the origins of World War II the

Haas, 2018-09-05 How do leaders perceive threat levels in world politics and what effects do those perceptions have on policy choices Mark L Haas focuses on how ideology shapes perception He does not delineate the content of particular ideologies but rather the degree of difference among them Degree of ideological difference is he believes the crucial factor as leaders decide which nations threaten and which bolster their state s security and their own domestic power These threat perceptions will in turn impel leaders to make particular foreign policy choices Haas examines great power relations in five periods the 1790s in Europe the Concert of Europe 1815 1848 the 1930s in Europe Sino Soviet relations from 1949 to 1960 and the end of the Cold War In each case he finds a clear relationship between the degree of ideological differences that divided state leaders and those leaders perceptions of threat level and so of appropriate foreign policy choices These relationships held in most cases regardless of the nature of the ideologies in question the offense defense balance and changes in the international distribution of power
