British Writers Of The Thirties:

British Writers of the Thirties Valentine Cunningham,1988 This wide ranging study of British writers and poets of the 1930s including Auden Isherwood Spender Waugh and Greene examines the masterpieces of that momentous decade not in linguistic isolation but in the contexts social political historical ideological and personal in which they were composed Cunningham maps out the dominant images and concerns nothing less than the central obsessions and imposing images of the 30s imagination He analyzes the obsession with violence the destructive element of post World War consciousness the cult of youth of schools and schoolmasters the infatuation with heroes flyers mountaineers and racing car drivers and the related concern about being small weak or neurotic in an age of mass politics In order to illustrate this kaleidoscope of themes Cunningham examines not only the canonical texts but also minor forms and writings including detective stories films and popular songs showing how these neglected genres also illuminate the work of this period Men and Women Writers of the 1930s Janet Montefiore,2003-09-02 Men and Women Writers of the 1930s is a searching critique of the issues of memory and gender during this dynamic decade Montefiore asks two principle questions what part does memory play in the political literature of and about 1930s Britain And what were the roles of women both as writers and as signifying objects in constructing that literature Montefiore s topical analysis of 1930s mass unemployment fascist uprising and appeasement is shockingly relevant in society today Issues of class anti fascist historical novels post war memoirs of Auden generation writers and neglected women poets are discussed at length Writers include George Orwell Virginia Woolf W H Auden Storm Jameson Jean Rhys Rebecca West British Fiction in the 1930s James Gindin,2016-07-27 British Fiction in the 1930s studies the literary climate of the British 1930s through a critical treatment of some of its influential and socially representative fiction The works depict in various ways a culture under the stress of seemingly insoluble economic and intensifying international dilemmas a culture that seems betrayed by the promise of its past and the paralysis of its present The fiction considers transforming solutions individual and sexual rebellions as well as the fears and attractions of social and political change British Writers and the Media, 1930-45 Keith Williams,1996-06-12 Richly informative about a host of writers from Auden to Priestley and theoretically informed this wide ranging new study demonstrates that the 1930s remembered usually for uncomplicated political engagement can rather be seen as initiating the key elements of postmodernism developing the individual s sense of elsewhere through new technology of representation and propaganda Keith Williams analyses the relationship between the leftist writers of the decade and the mass media showing how newspapers radio and film were treated in their writing and how they radically reshaped its forms assumptions and imagery English Fiction in the 1930s Chris Hopkins,2006-12-07 This study approaches the fiction of the 1930s through critical debates about genre language and history setting these in their original context and discussing the generic forms most favoured by novelists at the time Chris Hopkins uses a series of case studies of texts to draw on develop or explore the boundaries contemporary usefulness and complexities of particular prose genres Generic debates and the political aesthetic effects of different kinds of representation were live issues as discursive struggles and negotiations took place between modernist and realist modes between high middle and lowbrow categorisations of culture between literature and mass culture and between different conceptions of the role of the writer politics and nationality sexuality and gender identities Chris Hopkins draws both on well known texts and on novels which have only recently begun to be discussed by critics of the thirties particularly those by women writers whose work has still not been related very clearly to the literary and political debates of the period Organised in five sections each focusing on major genres he takes a wide range of novels as case studies and discusses their uses of generic forms relating them to other examples and to their historical political and cultural contexts

The Cambridge Companion to British Literature of the 1930s James Smith, 2019-12-19 The 1930s is frequently seen as a unique moment in British literary history a decade where writing was shaped by an intense series of political events aesthetic debates and emerging literary networks Yet what is contained under the rubric of 1930s writing has been the subject of competing claims and therefore this Companion offers the reader an incisive survey covering the decade s literature and its status in critical debates Across the chapters sustained attention is given to writers of growing scholarly interest to pivotal authors of the period such as Auden Orwell and Woolf to the development of key literary forms and themes and to the relationship between this literature and the decade s pressing social and political contexts Through this the reader will gain new insight into 1930s literary history and an understanding of many of the critical debates that have marked the study of this unique literary era

London Writing of the 1930s Anna Cottrell, 2018-09-30 Analyses our modern obsession with intense experiences in terms of the metaphysics of intensity

Writers of the Old School Rosemary M. Colt, Janice Rossen, 1992-06-18 This charts the emergence of British writers who assimilated the experimentation of the modernists in a realist tradition also crafting their own distinctive literary voice The essays in this volume cover a broad range of authors including George Orwell and Evelyn Waugh

A History of 1930s British Literature Benjamin Kohlmann, Matthew Taunton, 2019-05-16 This History offers a new and comprehensive picture of 1930s British literature The 30s have often been cast as a literary historical anomaly either as a low dishonest decade a doomed experiment in combining art and politics or as a late modernist afterthought to the intense period of artistic experimentation in the 1920s By contrast the contributors to this volume explore the contours of a long 1930s by repositioning the decade and its characteristic concerns at the heart of twentieth century literary history This book expands the range of writers covered moving beyond a narrow focus on towering canonical figures to draw in a more diverse cast of characters in terms of race gender class and forms of artistic expression The book s four sections emphasize the decade s characteristic geographical and sexual identities the new media landscapes and institutional settings its writers operated in questions of commitment and autonomy and British writing s international entanglements
